HOOPER REPLY TO UNIONS

Balloting At Illinois Central Shops Shows Large Anti-
Strike Sentiment

Chicago—Although expressing hope for a rush of ballots the rest of the week, union headquarters where the strike vote of railroad employees is being tabulated Wednesday admitted disappointment over the volume of returns in the nationwide referendum on the question of a walkout in protest against wage cuts ordered by the United States labor board.

Reports on the balloting at the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central were to the effect that the boiler makers there had voted overwhelmingly against a strike. Anti-strike sentiment among the Burnside boiler-makers was said to be almost unanimous.

Rail workers and their leaders Wednesday were digesting the reply of Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the railroad labor board, to the nine union chiefs who informed the board that a strike would be authorized if the referendum favors a suspension of work on the roads.

Mr. Hooper said although he felt no reply was required, he also felt it his duty to answer the union leaders in the interest of railway peace and because the threatened strike "contains such possibilities of loss and detriment" to the strikers.

ACTION ON COURT RULINGS DELAYED BY CONVENTION

No Evidence That School Books
Are Propaganda Opposed
To Labor Unions

By Associated Press

Cincinnati—Delay in beginning the consideration of organized labor's plan for combatting court decisions adverse to unions was encountered when the American Federation of Labor convention resumed work Wednesday with the announcement that the program to be proposed by a special committee was expected to be presented later in the day.

The education committee reported that an investigation of school text books made by the federation during the last year disclosed no evidence that the text books were being used for circulating propaganda regarded as opposed to organized labor.

Aside from the convention, delegates made plans for holding a mass meeting Wednesday night in Newport Ky., where a strike of steel workers has been on since last October. President Campers and others are on the program to address the meeting.

HOLLAND HEADS HAGUE COMMISSION

The Hague—Holland was assigned the presidency of the Central Commission of the conference on Russian affairs here when the selection of the heads of the commission and the three sub-commissions of the conference was made Wednesday. Belgium was given the vice presidency of the central body while representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy respectively head the three sub-commissions.

The Russian soviet delegation is expected here Friday.

BODY OF AGED RACINE MAN FOUND IN CREEK

By Associated Press

Racine—The body of Louis Jensen, 78, a farmer, was found in Honey Creek west of Burlington Wednesday by Harry La Porte, driver of a passing milk truck. Jensen started out on a fishing trip Wednesday morning and it is presumed his line became fouled on the bottom and that in attempting to release it he plunged into the water striking his head on a submerged rock. The creek is two feet deep at the point.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR MONTFORD BANK OFFICIAL

By Associated Press

Madison—A warrant for the arrest of Clyde Stephens, missing cashier of the Montford state bank, was issued late Tuesday on demand of a person connected with the institution. Since the disappearance of Stephens on June 8 it has been learned that there may be discrepancies in his accounts amounting to $40,000.

PUBLIC UTILITY COMPANIES HIT BY COAL STRIKE

Report To State Railroad Commission Urges Relief From Shortage And Prices

SMALL SUPPLY AVAILABLE Declares Public Is In Danger Of Being Deprived Of Gas And Light Service

Madison—Utility service in Wisconsin is being seriously menaced by the continuance of the coal strike, according to representations made Wednesday to the state railroad commission by J. E. Cady, secretary of the Wisconsin Utilities association, who urged immediate relief from the coal shortage and high prices to relieve the utilities from the need for asking increased rates for the winter.

Mr. Cady told members of the commission that continuance of the strike not only endangered utility service, but also all other branches of industry depending upon coal. He said that unless action was taken a coal panic would result this winter because of the shortage of supply available to Wisconsin householders.

Report made to the utilities association after a comprehensive survey shows that companies have only a three or four weeks coal supply available and that additional supplies must be received within the next week or utilities service may have to be discontinued.

"Only a few companies have enough coal visible to assure the public that they will not be deprived of their gas and electric service," the report declared. "The increased cost of the product is boosting operating costs each day and utilities that are able to serve will be unable to furnish service at the prevailing rates."

"Utilities companies will be compelled to seek higher rates unless relief is forthcoming very soon. A number of utility men have suggested that the coal mines be declared a public utility and regulated by the government."

MRS. OLESON STILL LEADS SENATORIAL PRIMARY ELECTION

Woman Candidate Far Ahead Of Nearest Opponent For Democratic Nomination

By Associated Press

St. Paul—Returns from Minnesota's statewide primary Monday were sufficiently near completion Wednesday to show Mrs. Anna Dickie Olelsen far in the lead of Thoma Meighen, her nearest opponent for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Frank B. Kellogg was renominated in the Republican primary over Ernest Lundeen.

The first woman to sit in congress—Miss Jeannette Rankin—came out of the northwest when Montana voters sent her to the lower house in 1916. Whether the northwest will give the senate its first woman member will be answered at the polls in Minnesota next November.

Gov. Preus and other Republican state officers were renominated.

Smoke And Lava Pouring From Old Volcano—Experts Believe It Is Not Serious

By Associated Press

Rome—The activity of Mount Vesuvius for several days past has caused considerable alarm in the surrounding villages, but experts consider the alarm is groundless.

An eruptive cone within the crater burst and from the northern side a thick stream of lava flowed.

A thick smoke with incandescent material swept upwards to an altitude of about 1,200 feet, creating a magnificent spectacle.

Experts believe there is no special danger to the Neapolitan villages, or the visitors crowding them to enjoy the picturesque sight.

IS CALLED COMMON CRISIS

Conference To Be Followed By Another Meeting Of Union
Officers In Chicago

Cincinnati—Further meetings to consider joint strike action were being planned Wednesday between leaders of the striking coal miners and the rail unions that are threatening a nationwide rail walkout next month. The union chiefs indicated that they expected to hold conferences here this week to be followed by a later meeting in Chicago where the rail leaders will canvass the strike vote next week.

A joint statement President Lewis of the miners and B. M. Jewell, head of the rail unions issued Tuesday night declared a "common crisis" faced both the railroad men and miners and added "it is only natural that these workers should decide to do everything necessary to protect their separate interests."

BRITISH WELCOME IRISH VOTE RESULT

Verdict Supporting Treaty Is Praised As Common Sense
Of Irish People

By Associated Press

London—The striking results of the Irish elections as far as announced are welcomed here with enthusiasm, complete with praise for the "common sense" of the Irish people, whose verdict is regarded as strengthening the position of the Anglo-Irish treaty and the new constitution.

It is recognized however, that rejection of the extremists at the polls has not removed all the difficulties of the situation. The labor vote, which is generally remarked as one of the notable features of the polling, is claimed for the treaty side, but it is declared by some observers that the Irish labor party is far more laborite than treatyite and its future attitude in reference to the country's politics is unknown.

HOPKINS CLEARED IN CASTLE REPORT

By Associated Press

Madison—B. J. Castle, chairman of the Wisconsin civil service commission Wednesday filed a report clearing Joseph J. Hopkins, former night operator on the capitol switchboard, from charges made against him by Governor J. J. Blaine in "Evening in" on private conversation from the executive office. The report of Mr. Castle has not been concurred in by the other two members of the commission.

The chairman of the commission asserted that from the evidence submitted at a hearing before the commission it would appear that "party or factional politics loomed large in the mind of Ralph Blaine, executive secretary, in his desire to separate Mr. Hopkins from his employment in the state service."

ISSUE TWO THOUSAND STATE BARBER LICENSES

By Associated Press

Madison—Two thousand five hundred master barbers have renewed licenses according to the state board of health, and two thousand more are renewable June 30. If not renewed by that date licenses are revocable.

Upon request of the board, T. J. Reinert, district attorney of Langlade county, prosecuted Homer Lincoln of White Lake, for barbering without a license. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed.

By Associated Press

Indianapolis—World war veterans who still are suffering from wounds of disability incident to their service, have entered their protest against the use of their name to fight adjusted compensation, national headquarters of the American legion announced here Wednesday upon receipt of information from the disabled American Veterans organization.

"For the solemn purpose of correcting a rank injustice to the disabled," Robert M. Smyth of Cincinnati, national staff representative of the Disabled American Veterans, charges in a letter to the legion that certain financiers corralled a few disabled soldiers recently and brought them up before President Harding (for which they probably were well paid) and had their picture taken."

This picture, Smyth alleges, was published broadcast with the statement that "disabled veterans are against a bonus."

Smyth also quoted from his organization's magazine to the effect "that the payment of a bonus will not prevent nor delay taking care of the crippled and maimed veterans, and taking care of the war cripples ought not be delayed nor prevented by paying just compensation to all ex-service men."

The disabled veterans in their last two national meetings have endorsed adjusted compensation, the publication shows, and urged its immediate enactment into law.

LA FOLLETTE IS ASSAILED FOR HIS ATTACK ON COURTS

Statements Of Badger Senator
To A. F. O. L. Causes
Sharp Debate In Senate

By Associated Press

Washington—The plan of Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, to give congress power by constitutional amendment to override supreme court decisions holding its act unconstitutional, caused another flurry Wednesday in the senate. Senators Edge, Republican New Jersey, and Kellogg, Republican Minnesota, attacking the proposal and evoking a fiery defense from Senator La Follette.

The La Follette proposal advanced June 14 before the American Federation of Labor convention, in Cincinnati, was assailed by Senators Edge and Kellogg as subversive of democratic government, while Senator La Follette took sharp exception to the opinion that he would attempt any attack on popular government.

"Any man who invites lack of respect of our courts, weakens the cornerstone of our government," said Senator Edge, who added that Senator La Follette's plan was "false and revolutionary and an attack not only on the judiciary but upon the American people and the government."

Sensor Kellogg said Senator La Follette's plan was a pernicious doctrine "which would strike at the very foundation of government" and give congress the power to interpret and override the constitution as it should see fit. The Minnesota senator, with Senator Edge, denied that the supreme court had "usurped" the power to declare congressional acts void.

Sensor Edge defended and Senator La Follette attacked the New Jersey senator's insertion in the congressional record of an address by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia University attacking the La Follette plan.

RAIDS CONTINUING AROUND BELFAST

By Associated Press

Belfast—A number of Protestant railroad employees residing in Dementia Terrace, Dundalk, underwent a terrifying experience early Wednesday when their dwellings were attacked by a fire. There were women and children in the houses. The walls and doors were riddled with bullets but no casualties were caused.

A signal cabin nearby was raided but the signalman made his escape. Recently there has been an influx of refugees from Belfast who have been unable to secure accommodations. Constabulary raided several houses in Armagh Wednesday morning. They arrested Frank McKee, an auctioneer, who is a nephew of James McMahon, the under secretary for Ireland. Two large Sinn Fein flags were seized.

Proposed Commission Would Help Congress Draw Up Tariff Rates

SINN FEIN CAPTIVES PUT ON PRISON SHIP

By Associated Press

Belfast—Lorries were busy from midnight until early Wednesday morning transporting two hundred and seventy-five Sinn Fein internees to Belfast harbor where they were placed aboard the former United States Shipping Board Steamer Argenta which is being refitted as a prison ship for Sinn Feiners captured in the recent round up by the Ulster government. After the internees were placed aboard, the vessel left for a cruise of about twenty miles to Carrickfergus, scene of one of Paul Jones' raids and ancestral home of Stonewall Jackson. The Argenta anchored outside of the seaway at Carrickfergus.

PARIS ALARMED AT GERMAN MISSION

By Associated Press

Paris—French official circles are displaying considerable concern over the arrival in Moscow of a German military mission of which Col. Bower, chief aide to Gen. Ludendorff and Col. Hentze, an assistant of Hugo Stinnes, are members. The officials say they have reason to believe the military men have gone to Moscow to make a survey of the soviet army with a view to a possible military accord between Germany and Russia.

The presence of German officers in Moscow and the recent warlike utterances of M. Freudenreich, chief of staff of the Bolshevik army are regarded with significance by the French officials.

Harding Wants Tariff Separated From Politics

HARDING BELIEVES PEOPLE WILL FAVOR SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

President in Letter Says Congressmen Will Find "Favorable Reaction"

Washington—Confidence that a "very favorable reaction" will be encountered by members of congress who take the administration's ship subsidy bill before their constituents prior to its consideration by the house, is expressed by President Harding, in a letter to Representative Mondell, Wyoming, the Republican leader, giving formal approval to the plan to press the legislation to a vote immediately after the tariff bill has been sent to conference by the house.

Presenting a detailed statement of reasons favoring passage of the bill, at this session, the president, in his letter made public Wednesday, declared the public interest would not permit postponing until the December session in view of the loss entailed by the government's ships holdings which the bill is designed eventually to get into private hands.

President Seeks To Have Power Of Tariff Revision Placed In Hands Of Executive Or Special Commission.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, By Post Pub. Co.

Washington—As the climax approaches in the debate over the tariff, President Harding finds himself confronted with a choice between surrendering to congress on the question of elasticity and flexibility in the making of tariff rates, hereafter or making a determined fight for the extension to the executive or a tariff commission of power to correct such inequities as may develop in the actual working out of rates in the pending bill.

The congress will not of its own accord deviate from the course followed in the past—namely the making of a political tariff and only the impetus to be furnished by executive appeal to public opinion can take the tariff out of politics.

"TARIFF IS POLITICAL ISSUE"

Many times in the last few decades have public men advocated the removal of the tariff from partisan influence on the ground that tariff rates are decisions of the most influential groups in American industry rather than the true interest of the consuming public. But the amount has never been as propitious as now for a fight to vest in a tariff commission the same broad power to make rates as is given to the interstate commerce commission to fix railroad rates.

"HIGH TARIFF HUNTS U. S. TRADE"

President Harding has heard many complaints that the high tariff bill now in the senate would injure American foreign trade. His pet measure, too, the merchant marine bill is already being attacked by Democrats on the ground that no subsidy in the world will enable American ships to compete with foreign flags if little or no goods are carried on return voyages to the United States.

To determine what are just and equitable tariff rates the subject must be stripped of political privilege and special favor. The decisions must be judicial and based only on economic facts. Congress has refused heretofore to permit any body to determine tariff rates for exactly that reason—as campaign contributors and other influential men in a constituency have looked upon their representatives in congress as their particular agents in tariff matters. Both Republican and Democrats will admit that practically every bill in the past has been influenced by consideration of party politics.

Mr. Harding thinks Congress cannot afford to act as a permanent tariff commission. He advocates giving the tariff commission more power and permitting the President to adjust rates as circumstances make it necessary. One political person charged with full responsibility, he thinks, would be better than 531 members of congress with individual and sectional viewpoints. All Washington is wondering if Mr. Harding will make a fight for his provision or surrender to congress. His position will be disclosed soon.

BLAINE APPOINTS STORM RELIEF MEN

By Associated Press

Madison—Gov. J. J. Blaine Wednesday appointed a committee of five to cooperate with the local committees organized in St. Croix, Polk, Barron and Dunn counties in the distribution of relief of those who suffered through the tornado of last week.

Members of the committee, who also will aid in collection of funds are: W. S. Hedges, Ernest W. Varner of Madison, Senator A. C. Anderson, Menominee, B. G. Packer, director of immigration and Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets.

The governor announced that this committee is given full authority to do whatever is necessary in the relief of the tornado.

All three complaints seek damages of 100,000 for alleged violation of contracts, promised bonuses and conspiracy to prevent them from playing ball.

LEVEE AT BROWNSVILLE BREAKS AS RIVER RISES

Brownsville, Tex.—Four hundred feet of levee protecting a section of the San Benito irrigation district about twenty-four miles up the river from Brownsville, gave way before flood waters of the Rio Grande Wednesday morning causing the first inundation of lowlands in Cameron county. A large force of workmen rushed to the scene and began building up the levee protecting the village of Los Indios which is threatened by the break.

Amendment by Frelinghuysen Calls For Increasing Com- mission To Ten Members

BETTER TARIFF POSSIBLE Would Recommend Any Nec- essary Changes To Congress Every Six Weeks

Washington—Machinery for the construction of what was described as a scientific tariff based on the differences between conversion costs in this country and a b r o a d would be set up under an amendment to the pending proposed Wednesday by Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, who, as a member of the finance committee helped draft the measure.

ENLARGE COMMISSION

Under the terms of the amendment, the tariff commission would be enlarged to ten members and would be required to recommend to congress not later than December 1, 1923, and each six months thereafter, rates of duty necessary to equalize the differences in conversion costs as disclosed by investigations which it would make.

The members of the commission, appointed by the president, would hold office for life and would receive salaries of $12,000 each, the same as cabinet officers. Not more than five of them could be of the same political party and none of them could engage actively in any private business, trade or profession.

In a prepared address explaining his amendment, Senator Frelinghuysen declared that the present tariff making system was both "illogical and unscientific" and that the public mind was thoroughly awake "to the abuses of this system and to the necessity for reform."

"And this awakening should be a warning to all of us to take the tariff out of politics," he continued.

REMOVE PARTY PRESSURE

The New Jersey senator argued that this amendment would "vitalize" the tariff commission and would remove its members from "personal and party pressure" by establishing a fundamental principle for fixing rates. Also he said it would give the commission the time, money and authority to frame such a bill as would afford actual, not merely supposed protection to American industry and American labor.

Pointing out that the finance committee in framing the present bill took 3,000 pages of testimony, Senator Frelinghuysen declared no one could "wade through this gigantic mass of information without confusion or to be sure of their conclusions because of the technical nature of the subjects." He said opponents of the bill had obtained similar information from other sources considered equally as reliable as those from which the committee obtained its information and yet that facts relied upon by both sides were so different that doubt was thrown on the accuracy of all of them.

If congress had all the facts, not part of them, he added, such a condition would not exist. Attention also was called that a tariff rate as it is determined now often becomes at best a compromise; an attempt to meet the varying demands of many sections and many opposing interests.

50 TRAFFIC MEN VISIT APPLETON AND FOX VALLEY

Fifty Railroad Officials Come Here on Second Annual Outing

About 50 men, representing the Traveling Traffic Agents' association on its second annual booster trip, were in Appleton Wednesday morning. After luncheon at the Sherman house, the visitors left for Oshkosh where they spent the rest of the day. It is the purpose of the association to visit places of interest in its territory on each annual trip and the Fox river valley was picked this year. The trip started Monday when railroad men visited in Sheboygan. Tuesday they were in Manitowish and Green Bay, and Friday the outing will end with a picnic on the shore of Lake Winnebago.

Members of the Traveling Traffic Agents' association hail from Milwaukee, Chicago, Green Bay, Toledo, Detroit, St. Paul, Escanaba, and Houghton.

The association will hold its annual banquet Thursday evening in Hotel Menasha. An interesting program has been arranged, including a debate on "Women."

VARIED AND APPETIZING MEAT DISHES AT LITTLE COST

Meat is undeniably one of the more expensive items in the food bill of the ordinary family, and for this reason it is important that it be bought and used to the best possible advantage.

The number of tasty dishes which a good cook can make out of the cheaper cuts of meat or "left over" meat is almost endless.

Directions for intelligent marketing and recipes for the attractive preparation of inexpensive meat dishes for every day are given in a booklet issued by the Department of Agriculture.

Not Much To Shoot This Year But Kids Start Early

"Aw, gee, what's the idea of Fourth of July anyway when a fellow can't buy anything but baby fire crackers and sparklers?"

"Say, ain't it fierce? Why them stores up town ain't got no cannon crackers and yuh can't find any old Roman candles or anything. Gosh, all yuh can do on the fourth is to eat peanuts and drink pop. That's a lot of fun, ain't it?"

That is the attitude of the small boys and many of the small girls concerning the strict regulations which are being enforced concerning safe fire works. Only the smallest kind of fire crackers are available for general use and Roman candles which are not any "bigger" in a minute, pin wheels which are scarcely worth the name and torpedoes which are a third as big as they used to be, are the only ones on the market.

Practically all that the children can buy this year is snakes, a new variety of which comes right up out of a barrel, the usual "son of a gun" sticks which are scratched on the side, walk, red lights as big as ever you want them and sparklers. But such sparklers, you never did see for they come as long as a yard stick without any exaggeration. There are several very safe kind which any but the very tiniest lads scorn as not being worth the effort.

The change of course is due to the agitation for sane and safe celebrations. All that remains of the "good old days" have lost their kick like "fire water" which used to flow so freely in celebration of the Declaration of Independence.

The purchasing of what is on the market commenced as soon as the fire works were displayed. The children cannot wait until the proper time, either, and have begun to shoot off what they have a month in advance.

GROCERS EAT AND PLAY AT KESHENA FALLS TODAY

Appleton Grocers association held its annual outing at Keshena Falls Wednesday. William C. Fish, president, left for the falls at 7 o'clock in the morning with a truck load of supplies and was followed two hours later by members. While none of the grocery stores are closed, practically all of them are represented at the picnic. A baseball game was one of the features of the day's outing.

PULP MILL MEN HOLD ANNUAL OUTING TUESDAY

Superintendents of the Interlake pulp mill held their annual outing at High Cliff Tuesday afternoon.

Athletic contests of various kinds were held. In the rifle match D. P. Edwards won first place with a score of 55 out of a possible 75 and E. Ellison was second with 53 out of a possible 75.

A baseball game was played between the Reds and the Blues, the Reds winning by a score of 14 to 11. The Red battery was Gregory and Bancroft while the Blue battery was Rock and Bunko.

Swimming and foot racing contests were also held.

Police Locate Girl Here Quickly for Mr. and Mrs. Miles Metz of Clintonville

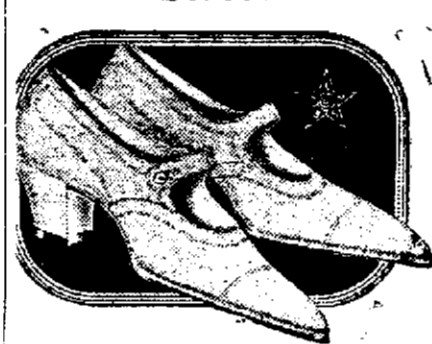

Fears of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Metz of Clintonville that their daughter Mabel, 16, had been kidnapped were set at rest quickly by the police here Tuesday afternoon. Officers were detailed to various places by Capt. P. J. Vaughn, acting chief, on a search and within an hour had found the young lady.

The girl had been keeping company with an Appleton young man and disappeared from home a few days ago. The parents were unable to trace her and came here Tuesday to ask assistance of the police. Her male companion was located and he revealed where she was staying. Miss Metz accompanied her parents back to Clintonville.

But they all like ginger ale

Fortunate it is that tastes differ, for this "variety is the spice of life."

But the taste of Clicquot Club has a universal appeal. Each bottle tastes like the next. Distance and the seasons do not affect the delightful taste.

Real Jamaica ginger, refined sugar, and fruit juices carbonated exactly right give Clicquot the taste which individualizes Clicquot among ginger ales.

Buy it by the case for the home. You can get, in addition to ginger ale, Clicquot Club Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer, and Root Beer.

"IT'S REMARKABLE HOW TRUTONA RELIEVED MY BLOOD TROUBLES"

Thus Speaks Mrs. Forester, Resident of Appleton For Past Forty Years—Says Swollen Limbs, Skin Eruptions Things of Past Now—Former Nervous, Restless Feeling Has Also Vanished

Hundreds of Appleton people know, like and esteem Mrs. A. Forester, a resident of this city for the past forty years who lives at 802 Maple Grove street, and many local people will therefore be unusually interested in her remarkable endorsement of Trutona, a blood recently, which follows:

"My blood had become out of order and seemed to have poisoned my entire system," Mrs. Forester said. "My limbs from the knees down, were badly swollen and broken out in sores and blotches resembling eczema. I'll tell you, I could scarcely walk. At night, I would become so nervous and restless from the pain which I endured, that it was next to impossible for me to sleep. I would just be up and down all night long, hearing the clock strike almost every hour. Of course, losing so much sleep and rest, I had become tired and weakened,

Well, sir, none of the other medicine I tried helped me whatever and that's why I consider it remarkable how Trutona has relieved me. Why, the former swelling in my limbs has all subsided and those sores and blotches have entirely dried up now. It's certainly a great relief, too, to sleep as I do now. I believe I'm sleeping as soundly as I ever did in my life. There's no doubt in my mind but that Trutona's the best medicine money can buy today and it's really hard for me to express the gratitude I feel toward this great medicine."

Again we call the attention of the local public to the fact that Appleton residents are doing MORE than merely endorsing Trutona. Their words fairly ring with enthusiasm and gratitude for the benefits this great preparation has given them in cases of stomach, liver, kidney, bowel, blood

Trutona is sold and highly recommended in Appleton at SCHLINTZ BROS. Drug Store.

OTTO ZUEHLKE'S HAT IS TOSSED IN POLITICAL RING

Twelve Candidates Now Are Seeking Republican Nomination for Office

Otto Zuehlke, manager of the West End filling station and former police man, has announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff of Outagamie county. Nomination papers are now in circulation. Mr. Zuehlke is the twelfth county candidate and fifth candidate for sheriff to receive papers. The others are Earl Schwartz, John Wagner, Edward Droeger and Otto Daelke.

It is believed that next week will see more candidates in the field for various county offices. The law requires that papers must be filed at least 30 days before the primaries, which means that candidates that file after August 5 will be eliminated from the primaries.

Congressional candidates must have signatures representing at least 2 percent and not more than 10 percent of the total number of voters of their party in the district at the last presidential election. The signatures must come from not less than half of the counties of their district. In the Ninth district the Republican candidate must have at least 875 signatures, the Democrat 304, Socialist 67 and Prohibitionist 10.

Candidates for county offices must have at least 3 percent of the party votes in at least one sixth of the election precincts and in the aggregate not less than 3 percent and not more than 10 percent of the total vote of their party in the county. Outagamie county candidates on the Republican ticket require 334 signatures, Democrats 84, Socialists 15 and Prohibitionists 4.

There are no independent candidates in the primary, although defeated candidates may file nomination papers after the primaries as independent candidates in the November election.

MANY CRAFTS ON Y. M. C. A. JOB LIST

Tradesmen of More Than 40
Kinds Are Applying for Work
They Are Fitted For

More than 40 trades are represented in the applications on file in the Y. M. C. A. employment bureau by men seeking work, according to C. L. Boynton, employment secretary.

Common labor jobs are supplied easily, but many men are seeking places where there is steady work with a chance for advancement. They accept anything they can get for the time being but are ready to make changes when their desired work is found.

These are some of the crafts for which jobs are sought:

Common labor, retail salesman, stenographer, accountant, bookkeeper, machinist helper, chauffeur, truck driver, expert, chemist, store clerk, shipping clerk, floorman, machinist, concrete worker, saw filer, woodworker, elevator operator, car painter, millworker, traffic manager, farming, painter, night watchman, auto mechanic, plumber's helper, apprentice electrician, furniture shaper, welder, brickmaker, solicitor, musician, timekeeper, paper fitter, electrician, general clerk, cabinet maker, fireman, pharmacist, draftsman, pressman, roadworker, purchasing agent and ice cream maker.

Days under 18 years want work such as lawn cutting, store clerking, truck driving or delivering, factory work, weeding, farm assistance or odd jobs.

"Too Much Wife" is a Joyous
Comedy

Wanda Hawley and T. Roy Barnes as a young married couple after a treat at Fisher's Appleton Theatre today and tomorrow, in "Too Much Wife," a comedy drama and one of the best of its kind seen on the screen. It is a long story when you try to write it, but it reads along at the limit of speed, and a laugh to mark off every couple of revolutions. Miss Hawley as a fond little bride, eager to insure the marital happiness of her bridegroom, takes advice from her "masterful" Mother, but private life, from her bespeckled father, her effort to reconcile and act on both conflicting counsels makes the story one you will like.

The usual short subjects consisting of a comedy and the latest News weekly complete the bill.

Friday and Saturday the Picture will be "Tillie" starring Mary Miles Minter.

Chamber of Commerce Gives Map and Postcard Service to All Tourists

Edward Sheehan, a member of the Chicago police force who served under Chief George T. Prim while the latter was a lieutenant in Chicago, was one of the tourists who registered at the chamber of commerce Monday. He is on his way to Rhineland with his family to spend a vacation.

Mr. Sheehan intended to pay Chief Prim a visit, but the chief is in San Francisco, Calif. attending a convention.

W. O. McBride and family of Fort Wayne, Ind., also registered at the chamber of commerce. They were on their way to Woodruff Junction for an outing.

Each tourist party is supplied by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett with a small map. The best roads to their destination are outlined for them. Souvenir postal cards with the message all written to the folks at home also are distributed both at the chamber of commerce and at the campsite at Alicia park.

LITTLE DISEASE FOUND IN CABBAGE

State Plant Expert Finds Encouraging Conditions in Tour of County

Plant beds for cabbage in this county show little indication of disease this year. Maggots eating on roots are injuring some plants and black leg is found in some places, but its prevalence is not general.

These were the conditions found by R. E. Vaughn, Madison, plant disease expert of the college of agriculture, in a tour of a number of cabbage fields during a stay of several days here last week. He was escorted to various farms by Paul O. Nyhus, secretary of Appleton Cabbage growers' association, and by John Will Farms.

Very few plants of the yellow, sickly kind denoting the presence of disease were found. And Mr. Vaughn regarded this as quite encouraging. Plants are becoming so large now that transplanting must occur, and farmers are waiting for dry enough weather to accomplish this.

Mr. Nyhus has offered to make disease analyses for all farmers so, noting or noticing signs of malady in their plants. He suggests that samples be brought to his office at the First National bank, and he will endeavor to determine just what the trouble is.

Travelers To Europe Want Bars On Ships

The recent publicity on the matter of prohibiting the sale of liquor on ocean liners has resulted in a falling off of business for American steamship companies, according to Henry Reuter of the local steamship ticket agency.

Quite a number of tourists have refused to travel on ships flying the flag of the United States, believing that these have dry bottoms. Thirsty Americans who are required to stay on the water from 10 to 12 days seem to have a pet aversion to anything but "wet bottoms". An eastern representative of an American steamship company who was in the city a few days ago to confer with Mr. Reuter expressed the opinion that it is impossible for American ships to be "dry" and compete with foreign liners.

Los Angeles—Jess Willard announced plans for beginning training with in a week for a match with Jack Dempsey.

EAT ANYTHING NOW, AND HAS GAINED WEIGHT

Milwaukee Woman Declares She Can't Find Words to Express Gratitude Since Tanlac Entirely Overcome Her Serious Stomach Trouble.

"I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for the way Tanlac has stored me to perfect health," said Mrs. Olga Pagel, 543 6th st., Milwaukee. "I suffered terribly four or five years and had scarcely any appetite. My food didn't taste good. I scarcely ever ate any breakfast and the little I managed to eat at other times caused me no end of pain and misery. I was almost on the verge of nervous prostration and didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep."

"Well, I started taking Tanlac and the change is just wonderful. I gained several pounds, my appetite was restored, my nerves steadied and sound sleep came back to me. I am glad to add my experience to the thousands praising Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. adv.

EXHIBIT GIVES IDEAS TO C. OF C.

Another of the successful industrial exhibits such as Appleton is planning for next fall has come to the attention of the chamber of commerce and some of the ideas may be adopted here.

The event was a combination civic and industrial exhibit conducted under chamber of commerce auspices at Middletown, Conn. Booths showed not only what products were made in the city, but also indicated many of the city's advantages and needs.

Favorable effect on the public morale was one of the results of the project, because it showed the people how strong the community and its resources were. Seventeen civic and social agencies and thirty-one industrial firms had exhibits.

Plans used in many cities are being studied by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce and it is possible that an exhibit adapted to Appleton will be evolved before fall.

THE CONDUCT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Secretary Hughes, in his Ann Arbor address, entered a plea for a "new sense of civic responsibility in matters of international concern." The secretary of state addressed himself to an admitted weakness in our political system. The public concerns itself very little with foreign affairs. Even when grave questions of international policy arise, the popular attitude is marked by indifference. It is a characteristic of our civic life and not easily changed. While it is true, as Mr. Hughes says, that sound public opinion is necessary to support the nation's peaceful diplomatic aims, it is also true that fearless, moral leadership in defining our foreign policies is the surest way to enlist popular support and confidence.

Mr. Hughes is a secretary who has inspired this public confidence by reason of his direct and progressive diplomacy. In our foreign affairs the people have greater faith in Mr. Hughes than they have in President Harding. It is because they instinctively feel that his views and acts are not governed by politics, while the president's affiliations make it impossible for him to entirely separate his foreign policy from the pressure of politicians. The reverse was true in the case of Mr. Wilson's administration, the leadership there being centered in the presidency rather than in the department of state. But the fact remains that wherever it is centered, there must be executive leadership.

It was the theory of Mr. Lodge and the senate "oligarchy" revolving about himself and the late Mr. Penrose that the control and direction of foreign affairs should reside in the senate. Mr. Penrose openly made the assertion that it would be transferred to the senate during the Harding administration. The record of the senate in handling the peace treaty and the League of Nations conclusively demonstrated the futility of this claim, by the way, which had never been seriously asserted previously. Mr. Harding completely ignored the Lodge theory and the Penrose threat, and we have had our foreign affairs conducted exclusively by the state department. This without doubt is because Mr. Harding chose a strong secretary of state, and has practically turned decisions of foreign policy over to him.

The wisdom of our constitutional machinery for handling foreign affairs is shown in the declaration of Mr. Hughes that we must "frown upon the constant efforts to create suspicion, distrust and hatred. There can be no assurance of peace, and few of the necessary and just settlements which make for peace in a world of hate." The debates of the treaty obstructionists in the senate from Mr. Lodge down were marked by contempt for foreign nations and by appeals to national prejudice and even animosity toward European governments. It was not the kind of diplomacy calculated to advance peace and understanding, and is a matter of history that it did neither. On the contrary, it defeated a rational and amicable peace. It helped to create distrust of Americans abroad, as well as distrust of Europeans by our own people. It is little wonder, therefore, that Mr. Hughes, fully coinciding with President Wilson, declares that American practice "has abundantly confirmed the initiative of the president to formulate foreign policy." Mr. Hughes would brook no interference by the senate in the making of treaties or in the definition of foreign policies. He stands for exactly the same conception of executive power and responsibility in this respect as did Mr. Wilson.

and for which the latter was shamelessly denounced by his political critics. Mr. Hughes' advocacy of a change in our parliamentary system by which cabinet officers would be admitted to the floor of the house and senate with the right to be heard on questions of foreign policy is a sound proposal and one which will not only meet with public approval, but which in the course of time will be put into effect.

CRISIS APPROACHING IN RUSSIA

Should Lenin be incapacitated for any length of time the directorship of Russia will pass, it is reported, to a triumvirate consisting of Kamanoff, Rykov and Stalin. In fact, it is said these three men already have begun to exercise executive power.

There cannot long be unanimity among three men. Disagreement leads to discord. One man can be a dictator, but three cannot be a dictatorship, as among three there is a minority with a strong backing.

As a matter of fact, there are two forces in Russia. One is the communist, whose strength is Trotsky and his red army. The other is the eighty-five per cent of the people, the great majority, which is under subjection.

The tendency in Russia is toward adoption of the majority's ideas, but the final obstacle is Trotsky and his armed men. The red army apparently will be the conclusive issue in Russian reform.

THE DOG FAMILY

Fashions in dogs are changing. You may have noticed lately that the majority of lost-and-found ads. dealing with canines, are for Airedales and police dogs that have strayed from home. The Airedale and police dog craze is refreshing, after the epidemic of diminutive dogs that look like a cross between a starved rat and a dwarf giraffe.

Popularity of different breeds of dogs seems to travel in waves. There was an epidemic of hounds, long ago, when a man had little social standing unless his kennels housed at least five. Pug dogs had their way. So did water spaniels, fox terriers and Newfoundlands. The "Boston bull" was all the rage when the Gibson Girl's clothes and the huge, bulging pompadour were in style.

To a psychologist, each of these dog crazes, reflected "the trend of the times." Now it is the Airedale's or the police dog's day—probably because they are expensive and each is a one-man dog. The dog—which in the wild state never barks—is one of the few animals that have accompanied man in friendship, during the long march out of barbarism. Originally dogs, jackals, foxes and wolves belonged to the same family.

The origin of domestic or tame dogs is lost in the mists that enshroud the period of the cave man. Professor Shaler's researches in dogology led him to believe that dogs were first domesticated to provide an emergency food supply during famine. A more plausible guess is that dogs were tamed to help gratify man's craving for submissive affection, also to tickle his vanity. Our primitive ancestors, no doubt, felt very much pleased with themselves when they contemplated the dogs they had subdued from the wild state.

Nevertheless, the dog has accompanied man into so-called civilization, and in return has been rewarded with a maze of legislation concerning his legal status, rights, ownership and conduct. The oldest monuments of India and Egypt show that ancient man reveled in ownership of Fido, Towser, Bruno and Bob. Today we have him in magazine stories and the news, which correspond to the carvings on monuments of long ago.

How the dog has survived man's passion for exterminating animal life, is a riddle, despite the affection with which he rewards kindness to him. That is one reason why the study of dogs is inseparable from the study of human nature.

SOME FEATURES OF FASTING

Prof. Francis G. Benedict, director of the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, at Boston, told physicians and the general public some important things about fasting, in the Second Harrington Lecture, given at the University of Buffalo, medical department, Buffalo, last June. In fact the eminent authority on nutrition slipped up on only one point so far as I can follow—he made the popular error of calling fasting starvation, an error which Noah Webster does not approve but which many physicians are guilty of making in their scientific writing and speech. Fasting is often beneficial as a remedy and, as many have learned, a short fast often improves health. Starvation is fatal, or at least it threatens life. Particularly, surely, would starve a patient, the some physicians write and speak of starving patients as unconcerned as you or I might say "Have a chew."

A number of students in Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., volunteered to undergo fasts of from two to seven days, spending the entire time during the fast in a respiration chamber, so that all the oxygen they breathed and all the carbon dioxide and things they eliminated or excreted could be carefully measured, as well as the pulse, temperature and so on.

The average loss of weight was a kilogram daily—about two pounds—for the first two days, and rather less than that on the subsequent days of the fast. It got down to about one pound a day the fifth or sixth day.

A remarkable feature was the pronounced depletion of the glycogen storage in the body the first two days of the fast. Glycogen is the "blood sugar," the form in which fuel energy is stored in the body, in the muscles and liver particularly. This suggests that the average individual need not feel at all anxious about his strength or energy if he loses his meal ticket and fails to find it for 48 hours, or that one might fast over a weekend and finish strong enough for Monday morning's grapefruit, toast and coffee. In other words we pack enough glycogen to carry us over a 40 hour fast nicely, and there's no occasion at all for panic. Especially true is this for the overnourished—that is any one who eats too much for his own good, which is indicated by overeating and indigestion.

The fasters did not suffer with faintness, did not feel "all in," did not suffer hunger pangs or pains, were not endangered in any way. This ought to interest obese individuals who so greatly miss their customary food intoxication when they essay a fast of 24 hours or less that they become all fussed up about it and get an "awful headache" and "such a dreadful empty feeling" that they break down the barriers and make a grand rush for "a little nourishment." Panic, merely. And the headache and anxiety headache. Habitual overeating, involving food intoxication, amounts to a craving like the alcohol, tobacco or other drug craving, and calls for both will power and won't power to control it—the physician applies the won't power, the patient the will. Thus: "My dear fellows, you won't last two years if you keep on eating so much."

Along with the quick burning of the glycogen store there was a rapid consumption of the stored fat deposits the first two days.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Good Old Bran Gems
Will you kindly publish your famous recipe for bran muffins? I have just returned from a visit with my sister—where Dr. Brady is quoted on every conceivable occasion. My sister's family, and several of their friends, have been getting wonderful results from eating Dr. Brady's bran muffins, and as we are heavy patrons of the liver pill industry in our household I thought we should take advantage of your advice. Love, G. O. W.

Answer—Some call 'em muffins, some call 'em cakes.

They're quite the choicest knick knacks that our hired girl bakes.

BRAN GEMS

One egg well beaten; pinch of salt; butter size of walnut, melted; one cupful each of sweet milk, wheat flour and wheat bran; one teaspoonful of baking powder. Bake in gem tins.

Salmon Red Cheeks

I was told that in order to obtain red cheeks one should eat several raw carrots and drink a glassful of hot water before each meal. I have been doing this for two weeks but have noticed no change in my complexion. M. S.

Answer—Ben Told must be out again. Carrots are good enough to eat, raw if you like, but of course they won't redden the cheeks. Some persons eating carrots notice a yellowish coloring of the skin.

Mrs. Sumsey Busy as Usual
My baby will be a year old in August. Some say I should wean him in June. Others say to nurse him thru the hot summer. What do you advise? Mrs. M. E. R.

Answer—Wean the baby now. It is seldom advisable to continue nursing a baby after he is 10 months old.

Fifty Off

I weighed 226 pounds last fall. I began using your Karrell regimen and I have lost 50 pounds. Of course I am still far too heavy, but I feel young and vigorous again. I am 28 years old. Should I attempt to add further reduction with vigorous exercise? Mrs. W. C. C.

Answer—You should take exercise, but if not used to it, you should begin with moderate exercise and gradually increase the daily dose.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, June 23, 1897

Bishop Messmer of Green Bay was an Appleton visitor the day previous.

Chester Williams went to Chicago for a several days visit with friends.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Sulp. Mrs. C. A. Childs returned home to DePere after a several days' visit with Appleton relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoefler of Kansas City and Thomas Hoefler of Chicago were guests of Marshal F. W. Hoefler.

The condition of the paper business during the previous two weeks was unexpectedly good. Prices continued lower, however.

The new officers of the Crescent City Lodge, No. 46, Ancient Order of United Workmen, were: Past master, workman, Frank Schreiter; master workman, George Lippert; foreman, S. Williams; overseer, C. W. Peterson, Jr.; recorder, Paul Selth; financier, A. W. Laabs; receiver, C. Peterson, Sr.

L. H. Finnegan "chaperoned" a party of gentlemen on a fishing cruise on Lake Winnebago on Edward Lehman's steam yacht, Fawn.

The attachment suits against the Paul Paper Co. instituted by Appleton creditors, were called for trial, but were put over until fall.

The level of Lake Winnebago was about six inches above the crest of the Menasha dam.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

TALKING AMBASSADORS

Perhaps a faint tinge of tariff bias is traceable in editorial discussion of "talking Ambassadors" in connection with Senator James Watson's attack on the Italian envoy for his public address on the pending tariff legislation, in which the Ambassador hinted at reprisal. Nevertheless the majority of the papers insist that if open diplomacy is ever to mean anything more than a noble phrase some of the fine-drawn niceties of diplomatic etiquette will have to be sacrificed to a blunter common sense.

The essential of open diplomacy, as the NEW YORK TRIBUNE defines it, "is that one people, when desirous of good relations with another, shall speak directly to the other people rather than solely to their government," and it tells that the American "is not afraid of the results of free talk" will scarcely "be benefited by gagging the foreign representatives or otherwise denying them the access to the open forum of American public opinion."

Granted, answers the SCRANTON TIMES, and therefore this country has no intention of trying "the tongue of foreign representatives in this country," but "neither would we have them interfere in our endeavor to influence purely American legislation. And contending that Ambassador Ricci has been guilty of interference in a purely domestic concern, a fairly substantial minority of the press with the Indiana Senator in the controversy. We show our friendship for foreign diplomats by offering them every hospitality, even to the extent of excluding them from the strictures of the Eighteenth Amendment," but in return, the GRAND RAPIDS HERALD says, "we want them to mind their own business." The way for them to attend to that business is to take advantage of the "full liberty" accorded them "to discuss from all angles the subjects under such consideration with the President, his Secretary of State and other officials representing the United States," but the NEW YORK HERALD observes, "the American people have been jealously insistent that such foreign business should be done only under such circumstances," and "they have been quick on the trigger with vigorous protest against any foreigner that ventured in this country upon any other course."

Even conceding Ambassador Ricci's point that his discourse was economic and not political, the BUFFALO NEWS suggests that "it is not ordinarily a far cry from economics to politics; the fact of the matter is that in America they are more or less one," and while it is equally true, as Signor Ricci contends, that the tariff is an international question, the manner and extent of its imposition are "primarily of domestic concern." That the Ambassador's remarks had a political slant is the view of the WASHINGTON STAR, for since "a diplomatic representative may not directly address Congress," it is questionable whether he may "address those who elect the Congress or who may through influence guide its judgment and actions." Since such influence is the effect, even though it may not have been the intent of Signor Ricci's remarks on Italy's attitude toward our tariff proposals, his address, the NEW YORK TIMES holds, "does not meet the test of the fundamental principles of diplomatic intercourse between nations."

But these same rules of diplomatic procedure "seem to a good many folks to have a lot of flummery and flap-doodle about them," the ALBANY KNICKERBOCKER PRESS believes especially since "diplomats no longer command the awe with which they were once regarded." Even "ambassadorial indiscretions," in common with other kinds, may be "excusable if not justified, by the circumstances," and in the present circumstances Signor Ricci's "real offense is that he has told the truth," and while "it may be something new in diplomacy for an Ambassador to be perfectly honest and unafraid, it certainly is refreshing."

Indeed, the NEW YORK WORLD and the NEW YORK GLOBE unite in the feeling that, as the latter expresses it, the Italian Ambassador "has earned by his indiscretion the thanks of almost every American who has to meet the monthly bill at the grocer's or the dry goods merchant's."

If an offense against diplomatic procedure has been committed, the case calls for something more than "dramatic Senatorial exhibitions of rage and protest," observes the LYNCHBURG NEWS, and since no official action has been taken, the whole affair looks like an effort on the part of Senator Watson to divert "public opinion from the iniquitous tariff bill" by an outcry against "outside interference." The CHICAGO NEWS takes much the same view, "if there have been lately instances of unwarranted and really offensive interference or dictation the general public is not aware of that fact," it says, and "it is barely possible that some old-guard Senators think they can create favor for an unpopular tariff measure by making an appeal to nationalism and patriotism, text or no text."

In any event the episode has set a "new precedent in the diplomatic game," the BUFFALO EXPRESS cautions the doctrine "a new application," for "instead of pleading some delicate shades of meaning in words used which shall make it appear that technically he did not do what everybody knows all diplomats do," Ricci replied to criticism "with a good smashing defense," and he is "entitled to a hand or two for his nerve."

Since the State Department has pronounced the incident "closed," the PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN predicts that we may hereafter expect diplomats "to talk of the canals on Mars and to say pretty things about the people of the United States, but concerning the matters in which the people of the United States and the nations they represent are supposed to have a common interest, they must remain mute." But "it will be hard for Colonel Harvey," the BULLETIN suggests, "if reciprocal silencers shall be enforced." Recalling a speech for which Ambassador Gerard "was approved and applauded throughout the United States," in which our representative to Germany "discussed an international question of great moment that had nothing whatever to do with business affairs," the NORFOLK JEDGER DISPATCH concludes that "the difference depends on whose Ambassador is doing the talking."

TROTSKY SWEARS IN RED ARMY

Riga—A writer in the RIGA RUND-SCHAU gives an extraordinary description of the new Soviet army which has just been reorganized by Trotsky. He says: "The Soviet government has only now decided after five years of rule to swear in the army. Moscow had not seen such happy and excited crowds in the streets for years as on the sunny spring day when the ceremony took place. There seemed to be no constraint and there was a feeling that everybody in Moscow, the workmen and Soviet officials as well as the army, regard the Soviet government as a power which it is decidedly in their interest to uphold."

"The great event of the day was the parade on the Red Square in front of the Kremlin which began at half past eleven. Already at 8 o'clock in the morning an army of 200,000 men had assembled there. All the soldiers, without exception, were splendidly equipped and wore new uniforms. Red trousers, green of grey shirts with three broad red or dark blue stripes on the front with new red army cap like a viking helmet. At 11:30 Trotsky stepped out of the ancient door of the Kremlin, was received with cheers and walked up the front of the main tribune. He then mounted the platform and held a long political speech. He pronounced every word very clearly and distinctly and about a million people listened silently and attentively to his words. Once at twelve he was interrupted by the bells of the Kremlin which have been ringing from these towers for more than five centuries. When Trotsky had finished his speech he told the adjutants to give the sign that the Red Army was going to be taken. Horns were blown and drums sounded and Trotsky exclaimed in a loud voice 'I invite every member of the Red Army to repeat after me the oath.' He then began and after every third word 200,000 voices repeated the sentence. When this was over the 'International' was played, there were endless cheers, cannon were fired, aeroplanes were flying on all sides and there was no end to the rejoicing. Then the great review of the troops began just as in former times. Trotsky at the head of his staff let the troops march past. He greeted them all with a few words and was never tired of thinking of new words. The soldiers answered with loud cheers. Some of the regiments caused a great sensation, for instance the 'Chekha' regiment in special uniform, the Polish communist legionaries whom Trotsky greeted in Polish and a woman's battalion. He stood in the same place for more than three hours and watched the never ending march past of the troops, workmen organizations, Soviet officials, and corporations etc. Many were astonished at Trotsky's extraordinary endurance. This most brilliant of all ceremonies since the beginning of the Soviet government came to an end about three o'clock. But till quite late in the evening numbers of troops and workmen's organizations were to be seen on their way homewards."

MICROBES BEWARE!

London—An extraordinary little machine for minding microbes was shown to the Daily Mail medical correspondent at the Hackett-Thomson Research Laboratory in St. Paul's hospital, by Dr. David Thomson, director of the laboratory. Microbes are so infinitesimally small that 5,000,000 of them in a mass are invisible and 1,000,000,000 are only about the size of the head of a small pin.

To cut up microbes is therefore a difficult task. But this little electrically driven machine succeeds in cutting or "smashing" them. There are two discs, one of which is stationary while the other rotates. The stationary disc has 70 tiny steel knives and the rotating one 80 cutting edges. The microbes suspended in an alkaline liquid, are forced against these cutting edges at a speed of 60 miles per hour with the result that 28,000,000 cuts are made per minute. During the 20 minutes the germs usually remain in the machine they receive 560 million cuts.

But while some microbes are smashed by this process others are so tough that they come out whole and sound. A machine is therefore being constructed with 450 cutting edges at the rate of 120 miles an hour, giving 500 cuts per minute.

In the British Medical Journal Dr. Thomson explains the use of this machine. Inoculations against infectious diseases, such as typhoid fever, can be made with germs containing all their poisons or with germs from which the poisons have been removed. If detoxicated vaccines are used very much larger doses can be administered, and the larger the dose the greater will be the protection from the particular disease.

Legal Murders

BY ALEXANDER HERMAN

In Switzerland, France, Sweden and other European countries the law provides for specific indemnities which are to be paid to innocent persons convicted of crime. But what fair restitution can be made for conviction followed by execution? What reparation could be made for the legal murder of Neil Shumway?

Neil Shumway was a young Illinois farm hand. Tired of his job, he went to Nebraska.

There he lived with his brother for a time. But the youngster wanted to support himself.

He began looking for work. After much trudging around he found a farmer named Martin who needed a hand.

The man was a hard taskmaster. The boy did not like the idea of working for him. But there was no other work, so he accepted the job and moved out to the farm.

IS POOR WITNESS
A short time later, Martin's wife was found murdered.

The boy was accused of the crime. Martin was the chief witness against him.

Terrified, Neil made a poor impression on the jurors. They were not satisfied with his story.

After a short deliberation, they turned in a verdict of "guilty."

The boy was taken back to his cell shrieking. Efforts to appeal his case failed.

Despite his protestations of innocence, he was hanged in the Nebraska state penitentiary.

MARTIN CONFESSES
Meanwhile Martin prospered. He became wealthy.

But suddenly he became ill. With death staring him in the face, he made a confession.

He had killed his wife. She nagged him too much. Neil Shumway was innocent.

But it was too late.

The boy had paid the penalty—an innocent victim of the law.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What make of golf balls did Hutchinson and Barnes use when they won the British and American open championships last year? O. R. A.

A. Both men used Spalding's 50's.

Q. Were high schools original in this country? C. M. V.

A. The high school is distinctly an American institution. The English High School, founded in 1821 was the first of its kind, and gradually, as free elementary schools were established throughout the country, the high schools followed.

Q. Where did the slang expression "He's a hellbender" come from? J. R. P.

A. Possibly from a large salamander called the hellbender, founded chiefly in the streams emptying into the Great Lakes. This is an extremely ugly but perfectly harmless creature that is exceedingly tenacious of life and hibernates in cold weather.

Q. Was the play "Shore Acres" ever known by any other name? E. R. A.

A. James A. Herne wrote "Shore Acres" in 1884, and it was first produced as "The Hawthorne" at Chicago in 1892, taking its present name when it was played in Boston a few weeks later.

Q. How many Hessians were brought to this country during the Revolutionary War? S. W. B.

A. The total number of Hessians brought to America was 29,587, of whom 17,818 returned. The others either died or remained here to become citizens. These forces cost Great Britain about 1,770,000 pounds.

Q. Are bananas grown from seeds or sprouts? R. E.

A. The species grown for fibre and for ornament usually produce seed, and are propagated by planting seeds. The edible banana of commerce has a perennial root from which the plant is perpetuated by sprouts or suckers.

Q. What states have more women than men in their population? T. N. A.

A. Females exceed males in Massachusetts Rhode Island, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and in the District of Columbia.

Q. How could anything be prehistoric? M. N.

A. In a literal sense this expression is incorrect, for anything or event of which there is record necessarily is historic to the degree of the extent of the record.

Q. How long did the Cubans fight for independence? M. D.

A. The struggle of the Cubans for independence began in 1895 and continued until 1898.

Q. When cream is changed to butter is there a physical or chemical change? D. L. R.

A. The Dairy Division says when cream is changed to butter it is a physical change.

Q. Does the hippopotamus sweat blood? W. C. C.

A. A curious feature of the skin of this animal is the reddish exudation from its pores when it is excited in pain. It is called bloody sweat but the blood has no part in it.

Q. When were apartment houses first built in the United States? J. G. M.

A. Following the Civil War, between 1870 and 1875, the earliest buildings of this type made their appearance in New York City.

Q. Are vitamins important in the feeding of animals? R. E. M.

A. At present vitamins appear of significance chiefly in connection with pigs and poultry, although they may possibly be important in connection with breeding animals, and also with animals fed upon certain rations. Ordinary rations fed to animals contain an abundance of vitamins.

Q. On what tree does mistletoe grow? M. W.

A. Apple, thorn, maple, poplar, locust, hinden and occasionally oak, will furnish a home for the mistletoe parasite.

Q. What South American country produces the most cotton? K. L. C.

A. Brazil leads the Latin American countries in cotton production with an annual crop of 207,000,000 pounds.

Q. Was Harry Lauder ever a miner? F. J. W.

A. As a lad Harry Lauder was employed in a flax-spinning mill and later worked in the coal mines, but he had a natural talent as an entertainer that led him to choose the stage as a profession.

Q. What kind of an airplane was Quenth Roosevelt flying when he was killed? G. I. C.

A. The machine was a Nieuport 28 with a 150 horsepower Gnome engine. The plane's number was 14, and it bore the insign

Convention Of Club Women Is Started Today

The biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will open at Chautauque, N. Y., on Wednesday. Although there will be several prominent club women from Wisconsin in attendance, there will be no official representative of Appleton Women's club nor no unofficial delegates either as far as can be ascertained. Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter and Mrs. Obendorfer, speakers at the state federation meeting here in October, will be on the general program.

Two of the feature evenings, of the sessions which continue until June 30, are President's Night, when Mrs. Winter and another speaker whom she will choose will speak, and State President's Night when all the state presidents will make speeches. The keynote of all the sessions will be "Women as a Working Power." One day each is to be given to the six departments of the federation and the department chairmen are planning their own programs for that day.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Lucile Schabo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schabo of Appleton, route 5, and Clarence Van Ryzin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Ryzin, also of Appleton, was solemnized at St. Joseph church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, the Rev. Basil Gummerman performing the ceremony.

Miss Elizabeth Schabo, sister of the bride, and Charles Van Ryzin, brother of the bridegroom, attended the couple. The bride was dressed in pussy willow satin and a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaid was attired in peach organdie with a hat to match and carried a bouquet of carnations. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents at 6 o'clock.

The couple will live at 481 Franklin-st., Appleton.

The marriage of Miss Edith Wildfang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wildfang of Neenah, to Owen Kuether, son of Albert Kuether of Appleton, was celebrated at 4 o'clock Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. D. C. Jones of the Presbyterian church officiating.

Miss Una Kuether, sister of the bridegroom, and Roscoe Wildfang, the bride's brother, attended the couple. The bride was attired in a tan Canton crepe gown and carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas, while the bridesmaid was dressed in green georgette, wearing a mixed bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The house was decorated with roses.

After a reception and dinner, at which immediate relatives and friends were present, the couple left on a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kuether will be at home after August 1 in Appleton. Mr. Kuether is an employee of the Continental clothing company.

H. E. Knutzen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knutzen of Hortonville, and Miss Emma Menning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Menning of Appleton were married at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the parsonage of Zion Lutheran church, the Rev. Theodore Marth performing the ceremony. The attendants were Adolph Menning, a brother of the bride and Miss Bertha Knutzen, a cousin of the bridegroom. The couple left on a honeymoon trip to Chicago, after which they will reside at Hortonville, where Mr. Knutzen is manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Company exchange.

Miss Ethel Vanden Heuvel of Little Chute, was married to George Hammen, also of Little Chute, at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. John church of that village, the Rev. John J. Sprangers officiating at the ceremony. Miss Loraine Vanden Heuvel, a sister of the bride, and George Williamson attended the couple. A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

CARD PARTIES

A card party was held Tuesday afternoon in the St. Joseph hall. Prize winners at schafkopf were Mrs. Katherine Furhman and Mrs. William Merkle. The plumpsach winner was Mrs. Anna Zickler.

WISE WOMEN

A famous medical man of ancient times states regarding his writings that they were but a collection of knowledge obtained from the "Wise Women."

Do you realize that in those times the women, and not the men, knew about the healing properties of medicinal plants, roots and herbs? From the earliest times, women had a knowledge of the treatment of disease and of the healing merit of roots and herbs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was originated by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, and is now known and praised by women of all ages. It is prepared from roots and herbs having medicinal action of great value in the treatment of troubles women so often have.

FIRST MORTGAGE 7% SERIAL GOLD BONDS — OF THE —

Hamersley Manufacturing Co.

OF NEW YORK CITY

Dated June 1, 1922. Due in annual series as below. Principal and semi-annual interest payable June 1st and December 1st at the Chase National Bank, New York City, or the First National Bank, Chicago. Redeemable at option of the Company in reverse order of maturities at 107 1/2 during the first year and at a premium of 1/4 of 1% less each year following. Coupon bonds of $1,000 and $500 denominations each, with the privilege of registration as to principal.

CHASE NATIONAL BANK, New York City, TRUSTEE

Interest payable without deduction for Federal Income Tax, but not in excess of 2%.

Maturities

June 1, 1923	$20,000	June 1, 1928	$ 50,000
June 1, 1924	30,000	June 1, 1929	50,000
June 1, 1925 (500 bonds)	50,000	June 1, 1930	50,000
June 1, 1926 (500 bonds)	50,000	June 1, 1931	50,000
June 1, 1927	50,000	June 1, 1932	350,000

These bonds are secured by a closed first mortgage upon the property of the Company, situated in Garfield, New Jersey, including twenty-nine (29) acres of land, owned in fee simple, and a paper mill, printing plant and waxing mill situated thereon, with an annual capacity of 40,000,000 pounds of waxed paper and grease-proof parchment paper.

Assets

Based on audit at December 31st, 1921 by the Columbia Auditors, Inc., and giving effect to an appraisal by The Appraisals Corporation in May, 1922, at sound values, and to this financing, the assets of the Company are:

Land, Buildings, Machinery and Equipment	$2,291,107.00
Net Quick Assets	1,161,436.93
TOTAL NET TANGIBLE ASSETS	$3,452,543.93

The total assets are therefore over $4,600 per $1,000 bond.
Insurance carried on plant and contents, $2,350,000.

Earnings

The Company's net earnings before interest and depreciation, inventory adjustment and federal taxes for the last eleven years, have averaged:

For the 11 years ended Dec. 31, 1921	$283,435.91
For the 6 years ended Dec. 31, 1921	351,772.82
Maximum annual interest charge on these bonds	52,500.00

The average earnings available for interest for the last eleven years have therefore been 5.4 times the maximum interest charge, and for the last six years have been 6.7 times the maximum interest charge.

We recommend this loan for the following reasons:

1. The total net assets behind this issue are valued at over $4,600 per $1,000 Bond and the net quick assets alone are over $1,500 per $1,000 bond.
2. The average net earnings for the past 11 years available for interest, etc., have been more than five times the maximum interest charge, and have not in any one year during that period fallen below twice the amount of the maximum interest.
3. The Company has been established in this business for 45 years with continuous success, and is the leading company in its field. The management and ownership will be in the hands of the same men who have been responsible for its growth during the last 17 years.
4. Through serial payments the amount of the issue is rapidly reduced, which increases the margin of safety each year.
5. The indenture provides that the Company must maintain its net quick assets at not less than $75,000 during the life of these bonds, and that it cannot pay dividends in excess of $20,000 a year, if they will reduce the net quick assets below $1,000,000.

CECILIAN BAND ARRANGING BIG PROGRAM JULY 4

Concerts, Dance, Games and Contests Are to Be Conducted at Park

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Kimberly—A big celebration is being planned by Kimberly Cecilian band for Independence day at the park on Main-st. The program will commence at 8 o'clock and the forenoon with concerts by the band. A dance pavilion will be erected for the occasion under the large trees. Music will be furnished by the band's Imperial orchestra. Concerts will also be given by the band during the day under the leadership of Prof. Hernen. A tug-o-war, pie eating contest, bicycle races, greased pig contest and other events will be included in the program. Extra benches have been placed in the park to accommodate the large crowd that is expected.

Eunice Grignon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grignon was struck by the Van Thull delivery truck Monday afternoon. The accident occurred at the corner of Main-st. and Kimberly-ave. The car was driven by Mr. Fox. Those who witnessed the accident saw the child run directly in front of the car. She suffered several cuts and bruises on the face and neck.

Kathryn Stuyvenberg was pleasantly surprised Monday evening at her home in honor of her birthday. Games, music, and dancing furnished entertainment. Among the out-of-town guests were: The Misses Verna Gussert, Kathryn Van Roy, Elenor Uebing, Leona Schwab, Lydia Rheims, Romie Laux and Gene Smith. Appleton, and William Engles. Green Bay and Michael Versteegen. Little Chute. Miss Stuyvenberg was presented with many gifts.

MISS PASCHEN IS BRIDE AT KAUKAUNA

Ceremony Took Place Tuesday
Afternoon in Reformed Church

Kaukauna—The marriage of Miss Mate Paschen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paschen, to Owen H. Kitto took place in Reformed church at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. L. Worthman, assisted by the Rev. A. E. Tink of the Methodist church.

The couple was attended by Miss Violet Paschen, Miss Nellie Kitto, D. J. Kitto and Ervin Paschen. The bride was attired in a gown of white baronette satin trimmed with pearls and chantilly lace and a bridal veil of embroidered silk net. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses.

Miss Violet Paschen, her attendant, wore a gown of peach taffeta trimmed with silver lace and carried a shower bouquet of tea roses. Miss Kitto was dressed in a gown of electric green taffeta trimmed with silver lace. She also carried tea roses. Wilma Kail was flower girl.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Dinner was served at 6:30 to about 100 relatives and friends. Out of town guests included George Gonawane, Carroll, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paschen, Albert Paschen, Norman Leone and Onita Paschen, Green Bay; Henry Paschen and family, Woodville.

ORDER NEW PLANKS FOR TWO BRIDGES

Kaukauna—An adjourned meeting of the common council was held Tuesday evening in the council chambers. Kaukauna Lumber Co. was awarded the contract to furnish plank for Lawest, and Canal-st. bridges. The contract price is $2,200.

Practically all applications for saloon licenses were in the hands of the council. Permits or licenses will be granted at another adjourned meeting to be held Wednesday evening, June 28. A resolution was read authorizing the sale of high school bonds and plans were made to advertise for bids for the sewer construction that is to be accomplished this summer. Other routine business was transacted.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Children's day will be celebrated in Reformed church Sunday morning during regular church services. Sunday school will be held at 9 o'clock. A children's day program will be given at 10:15. It will consist of music by the orchestra and choir and recitations by Sunday school children.

The junior order of Moose will hold a banquet at 7 o'clock Thursday evening in Odd Fellow hall. Plans were made for a membership drive of 60 days during which time the charter will be opened and applications for membership will be received at a reduce fee. The campaign is nationwide and is called the President Harding drive. The president, who is a member of the order, will be present at the supreme convention to be held at Mooseheart in August.

2 CHURCHES CLOSE FOR SYNOD MEETING

Pastors and Delegates Will Represent Appleton at State Lutheran Gathering

No services will be held at St. Paul and St. Matthew Lutheran churches Sunday, because of the biennial meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Wisconsin and Other States at Wausau. Many of the members of the churches will go to Wausau to attend the Sunday synodical sessions.

Mount Olive Evangelical church also is a member of the synod but the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor, will return here for Sunday because of the annual picnic of that church at Pierce park. He will preach at the park Sunday morning.

The synod opens its sessions Wednesday and will continue through Tuesday of the coming week. More than 200 churches will send pastors and delegates.

St. Paul Lutheran church will be represented by the pastor, the Rev. T. J. Sauer, the teacher of St. Paul school, Ernst Schultz, and by Louis Nieland as delegate. Albert Voelck, president of the congregation, who is treasurer of the Northern Wisconsin district of the synod, also will attend.

The Rev. Mr. Ziesemer, and G. D. Ziegler as delegate will represent Mount Olive church. St. Matthew church will be represented by the pastor, the Rev. Philip Froehke, and by William Rubbert as delegate.

The City's Business

THE ATTORNEY

(This is the fourth of a series of articles describing duties and responsibilities of Appleton's city officers.)

By L. A. Fisher
A corporation that does a $2,000,000 business yearly cannot avoid law entanglements and must of necessity employ legal counsel, Appleton, being a $6,000,000 corporation and having lawmaking powers besides, is not exempt and therefore engages not merely the occasional services of an attorney at law, but engages the attorney himself. He is the employee of the common council, but of the city.

Because he is the city's representative, and having to do with the legality of the city's procedures, he is elected by the direct vote of the people. He holds office for a term of two years or until his successor is elected and qualified. He maintains an office in the city hall and is given a full time salary.

OFTEN SEEKS ADVICE

Inasmuch as aldermen seldom come from the law profession, they would sometimes be at a loss without a legal advisor. Before enacting a measure of unusual importance and concerning which there may be some doubts, the common council will seek the advice of the city attorney, who will then give a written legal opinion. When petitions, remonstrances and claims are presented to the council and that body is left in doubt as to the correct legal procedure, it will request the counsel of its attorney. To give the correct opinion, requires a thorough study of the city's ordinances, its charter and statutes of Wisconsin bearing on city government as well as decisions of the courts and sometimes no answer is possible until after special study and investigation.

The city attorney renders the council legislative assistance in the passing of ordinances. All ordinances are drafted by him, and are intended to be so drawn as to leave no "loopholes" for lawbreakers. These laws pertain to regulation of street traffic, upkeep of streets and public grounds, licenses, health, weights and measures misdemeanors and a hundred or more other things which the council considers in need of regulation or curbing.

PROSECUTING OFFICER

The attorney again lends his offices in judicial proceedings. Once the ordinances are passed, they are in need of enforcement. When a violation of the city's laws has been taken into custody, it becomes the duty of the city attorney to prosecute him in municipal court. He keeps a docket of all actions in court to which the city is a party, and represents the city, whether it is the defendant or plaintiff in the case. He appears for the city when damage suits or injunction proceedings are brought against it. When the council decides to take over lands for streets or public buildings, he institutes condemnation proceedings in the circuit court and pleads the case before a jury.

He also represents the city before state commissions, whether before the railroad commission on matters pertaining to contracts, rates and service of public utilities, or before the highway commission with reference to streets and bridges, or before the industrial commission on matters relating to city employees.

There is also much documentary work connected with the duties of his office. Every contract of the city, such as for building, paving, sewer digging, and contracts for easements are prepared by him. He obtains all permits for the city. He presents all claims for pensions for city employees. He is the legal representative of all boards and commissions of the city and is ex-officio a member of the board of public works.

Theodore Berr is the city attorney of Appleton and has held that office since the return to the aldermanic regime.

TEMPORARY BRIDGES ON COUNTY ROADS

A temporary bridge near the Albert Tillman farm on Spencer rd. is nearing completion. It is expected that in another week work will be commenced on the permanent bridge of concrete, replacing the one that was washed out by the cloudburst a week ago. This bridge will have two spans and will be twice as large as the former.

A new concrete bridge, replacing the old stone bridge, is to go up soon at Apple Creek. A temporary bridge is being erected in order not to hold up the mails. Miss Margaret Rohm, who is substituting for her father, Robert Rohm, on rural route No. 5, had been making a short detour on the Ballard rd., one half mile south of Apple Creek, but a bridge now is being built on that road.

Miss Mildred Thoms, a member of the high school faculty at Beloit, is spending her vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thoms, 738 Lawrence.

Baseball In Streets Hard On Motorists

"What is a tired business man or working man to do who, wishing to relax after the day's work, takes a spin in his car and finds his pleasure riding almost converted into torture by boys' baseball games on the streets?" asked an Appleton resident Tuesday.

Almost any evening the boys will be found playing on the crowded thoroughfares, seemingly insensible to the dangers that lurk in every passing automobile, he said. This is not merely annoying, but nerve-racking.

"More than once I have missed a boy by hardly more than an inch and it would send a chill up my back I wonder if some motorists do not worry over other people's children more than the parents do themselves. Let the boys have their baseball by all means, but are the streets the place for it?"

What is a Kilowatt? The [Illustration of a man with a lightbulb] Will tell You

Did You Ever Stop to Consider How Utterly Impossible it Would be to Carry on Business Without the Units of Measurement?

LET'S take the groceryman for instance and try to imagine him running his business without the pint, quart, peck and bushel measures in selling his goods. Or what if he advertised he would sell potatoes for 48c a "Wheedle Whack?" Naturally you would be curious to know how many potatoes there were in a "Wheedle Whack," so that you would be in some position to know how long a "Wheedle Whack" would last.

Of course, if he substituted the word bushel peck or pint for "Wheedle Whack" you would immediately think of a definite quantity and you would know approximately how long they would last. No mystery surrounds the word "bushel". To the average person it is an every day word. Ask any one what the cubical contents of a bushel would be in inches, however, and it is doubtful whether he could reply. And still he knows what a bushel is.

This is given only to strengthen our point that to know what a kilowatt is it is not necessary for a person to know all the technicalities of electricity nor to be mystified at mention of the term-for the word or term kilowatt expresses only a definite quantity of electricity. It is no harder to pronounce than "bushel" and its meaning is in no way more mystifying than a "thousand bushels."

Let the White Bag Men explain—let them tell you what you may expect to do with a kilowatt of electricity. You will find that there is nothing complicated in the word or its meaning, and in a short time you too will be able to know how much work a kilowatt will do for you.

CHAPTER XI THE NOISES OF SPACE

It was early in the morning when Garrick with Dick turned into the driveway of Glenn's house at Norwauke.

"Any word of Vira and Ruth?" queried Glenn.

"Not yet. But there is something you can do yet. Have you had your breakfast?" Then came along.

At Dick's house, the radio was on guard. Garrick posted Glenn on guard.

"Now, look here, boy—if you love Vira and want her back, guard this place as you would your life." Garrick had assumed a rather stern tone; he knew he must impress Glenn. "Inside and out," he added seriously.

"I'd like to be with you hunting the girls," returned Glenn promptly. "but if sticking here will help me depend on me, I'll be a stickler, all right. Only for heaven's sake, get those girls."

Dick grasped his hand and Garrick slapped his back encouragingly. With one last look to see that nothing had been disturbed, Dick grabbed up a small case and some other portable paraphernalia and lugged it out to the car.

"Never can tell," he said to Garrick. "I hate to be out of radio touch. And why the club can't appropriate money for an outfit, I can't see."

Garrick made the Club his headquarters and he felt he would like to start the day there.

"Cast thy words upon the ether and they shall return unto thee after many days," laughed Garrick as he looked over his mail. "I suppose now for a week I'm going to be bombarded with mail from radio fans. It's always the way. Where do they find the time to write all the letters? Say—here's one, though. Read that. A postcard—postmarked Northport."

Dick who was familiar with the ways of the radio listeners, read the card.

"Your message was good and clear—but why did you suddenly stop when you began to tell us your suspicions?"

"P. S. I don't approve of phonograph selections in radio broadcasting, anyhow. I can buy records."

"Someone on a cruiser or motor boat with a wireless," commented Garrick. "Like your radio frater-in-law, Dick. They certainly do take an interest in one another and go out of their way to do it."

Dick laughed. "You should see my mail. Why if they don't like a thing they almost take it as a personal insult—for a free service."

"There's a catch in it somewhere," considered Garrick. "Now what does he mean?"

"I don't know," said Dick. "I went right on to the end. And the phonograph record—what's that?"

Dick shrugged. His mind was on something else. Garrick, in his room, having without avail tried to find out the identity of "K 502" from the limited lists at the club, called the Customs House in New York and requested the looking up of the number in the motor boat registration under the federal law. He waited.

"Just what I expected," fidgeted Dick. "Marooned—away from a radio for no one knows how long. That's why I grabbed this thing up, the first thing I laid my hands on. Got the receiving apparatus—all but the antenna. Oh, very well—we'll see."

Dick snapped in place small clips which connected the bed springs of Garrick's bed—about a foot in head pieces like a telephone receiver to his ears.

"Bed springs—the iron fire escape—the gas and water pipes—the telephone wire—" he remarked as he turned and adjusted, "almost anything may serve as an antenna in a pinch."

The room telephone rang for Garrick. It was the Customs House calling. "K 502" registered by Patrick Devins, Bridgeport, Connecticut, a forty-foot cabin cruiser, named "Lassie." Want a description?

Garrick had just finished copying it when a loud exclamation came from Dick. "By Jove—Gee! It's a message from Ruth! Repeated—twice—here, I scribbled it on this book!"

"Please go into the nearest post office," he now developed that Jack Curtis, who attempted an elopement yesterday with me has a wife—Mrs. Rae Larue Curtis. That is all now. Tell my mother I am safe and will be back the first chance I can swim ashore. Ruth Walden."

The two men gazed at each other. "Looks like she's a prisoner," growled Dick. "The first chance I can swim ashore!"

"Yes... but, man, she's safe—somewhere. Her mother?"

Somewhere Ruth had cleverly contrived to communicate with the outside world by radio. Together the two hurried down the long corridor and up a flight of stairs to Nita Walden's rooms. Dick's heart was pounding; he felt, as loud as his knuckles on the door. He had heard from Ruth!

Mrs. Walden opened the door. She was afraid. What did the sudden rapping mean? Her worried and weary face searched Dick's eyes. "About Ruth? Tell me, Dick."

Dick blurted out, "Oh, what awful people!" shuddered Mrs. Walden. "But Ruth says, 'attempted elopement'—that means Ruth is all right. It didn't succeed. But—what can you do now? Oh, there's my telephone ringing again."

She turned from the room phone bewildered. "It was that Rae Larue girl—calling me. Oh, but then, was hate and spite and jealousy in her voice! The little vixen!"

"But what did she say?" cried Garrick.

"I can't begin to repeat the flood of words. Why, you'd think that I, Ruth's mother, had tried to frame up something against her! She said, 'I'd have you know that Jack Curtis is my husband! I married him in Chicago two years ago! I won't have that daughter of yours coming between us, and I've told him so! I'll squeal—I'll hand the whole bunch over first!'

"Bully," interrupted Garrick to Nita's astonishment. "Got 'em fighting among themselves. Hell hath no fury—and all that. You couldn't want a better guardian for Ruth than that woman scorned! And I'll bet you she'll do something—the first chance she gets. Here," without waiting for any comment from the surprised Nita, "let me have the wire. Central."

"Where did that last call to the 'Club' come from? Can you trace it?" He put his hand over the transmitter and asked, "In the city you can't trace a thing. But out in these little Long Island towns, these little village cossacks, wait, you'll see. Then with his hand off, "Yes, thank you," he hung up. "From the Gravel Works at the mouth of the harbor."

"I'll be darned—our harbor!" exclaimed Dick. "You're right, quick!"

"You'll be something else," quickly from Garrick. "Your boathouse!"

"I hadn't thought of that. We'd better get down there."

"Well, I thought of it. That's why I left Glenn. You don't need to ask me. Nita, I know. You're nervous and all upset. Yes, I think doing something, anything would do you good. Have McKay drive us all down. And hurry. We're not going to make a call."

They were coasting down from the top of a hill a few hundred feet from the boathouse when McKay jammed on the brakes and scraped off a couple dollars' worth of rubber off the tires. Just over the tops of the trees could be seen the roof of the boathouse and beyond, in the harbor, one instant was a rowboat with a girl and fellow in it; the girl in a bathing suit. They seemed to be struggling. The next instant, like a three-foot flash of a motion picture, there was a huge column of water and a puff of smoke, black wreckage of the boat. It seemed that, by a split second before, the two had struggled overboard or leaped. Then came the deep report, coming and reverberating among the Nonotank hills.

McKay released the brakes and rolled down like a roller coaster the rest of the way.

They were in time to see that the boathouse was unharmed. A little speed boat which they had not noticed now circled about. It picked up the girl and started off furiously toward the mouth of the harbor. A black object, Glenn, struggled feebly in the water. By this time Dick had his coat off. He rushed his shirt as he ran down the dock and plunged off almost unaccompanied by that time.

When Garrick pulled them both out and had Glenn sufficiently revived to find that there were no broken bones, he had begun to get the story. Glenn, it seemed, had been on the roadside of the boat house from which he had expected attack, if at all, when he had heard a noise under the workshop. The workshop was on the second floor. Under it had been a boat shed. It had been converted into a bannier by Dick, with a skid-way down into the water. In it he was working, installing one of his new radio ideas.

"I saw Rae," he panted for breath. "She had come up to the boathouse, alone, in a rowboat with a little engine over the stern. She was sticking the nose of the boat under the boat under the boathouse. I ran down and jumped into the boat. 'My God, Rae,' I shouted. 'Going to kill us both!'

"With a boat hook in both hands she lunged at me but it hit my shoulder instead of my head. 'Damn you!' she cried. 'I have had to say so many nice things to you when I didn't feel like it—here's another wall-jop!'

"I swung the boat free, gave the pier a kick and it turned. The engine was turning over slowly and carrying us away. I got the boathook away then she grabbed me. 'You fool! Take your hands off—before I bite them off!... Look! it's going to explode. It's going to explode!'

Then I—we jumped. There was that covey of water and stuff... Someone picked up Rae in a speed boat. I felt as if the darn engine had hit me. All Dick got me! But... the boat house... is safe, fellows!"

Garrick smiled. "I could devote you on the field of action, Glenn!" he looked over at Dick. The blow had been intended for them; it had miscarried and Glenn had risked his life. "We'll leave McKay here for a few minutes. I'll drive your car, Nita. I must get Glenn home. He's mustered out with all the honors!"

STEALS CLOCK FROM COURT IN SESSION

"Repairman" Enters Court Room With Ladder and Takes Clock Off Wall

By Associated Press

Berlin—Thousands of law-breakers have been given "time" at Berlin's central criminal court in Moabit, but recently an ingenious crook posing as a repairman actually was given the court's official clock, and during the conduct of a trial.

The sitting was well under way when a man in working clothes entered the courtroom with a long ladder which he calmly placed under the huge, imposing timepiece on the wall. The judge, counsel, accused and spectators were astounded at such an unprecedented interruption. The president stopped the workman's ascent of his ladder long enough to inquire the meaning of his conduct. The visitor explained that he merely wanted to get the clock for repair and that it would take only a moment. The president objected, but consented when the man said he already had called six times and always found the court in session.

The vacant space on the wall surprised the janitor later in the day, and his investigations revealed that the court had been robbed under its very eyes, in fact, with its permission.

PLAN HUGE AID PICNIC SUNDAY

Appleton Lutherans Asked to Join in Outing to be Held at Calumet Harbor

Branch No. 1, Aid Association for Lutherans, has received an invitation from branch No. 75, Fond du Lac, to join in a huge picnic that is to be held Sunday morning and afternoon at Calumet Harbor, on the east shore of Lake Winnebago.

The outing is to include all Lutheran aid branches of cities on or near Lake Winnebago. Automobiles will be used for the trip and it is expected that more than 1,000 persons will be present.

Religious services in English and German are to be held in open air at 10:30 in the morning. Music, games and other entertainment will be provided in the afternoon and evening.

CHILTON VETERANS PLAN CELEBRATION

Radolph O. Grassold post, No. 125, American Legion, Chilton, has completed arrangements for one of the biggest Fourth of July celebrations ever held in that section of the state. It will be a three day affair commencing Sunday, July 2 and concluding on the evening of July 4. Thousands of people from all over the state are expected to attend.

The celebration will be held at the Calumet-co. fair grounds. Games, contests and ball games and other amusements will form the three day program.

A large street parade will be held on the morning of July 4 in which floats contributed by the business men will form an important part. Former service men in uniform also will take a place in the line of march.

Dances will be held on the new open air dancing pavilion on the grounds. It is considered one of the finest in that section and has a floor space of 500 square feet. Plenty of parking space for autos will be provided in the grounds.

LEGION IN STATE DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Oney Johnston post of the American legion will take part in a statewide drive for new members in July. The post will at the same time conduct its service census, which is in progress in rural districts. Every effort will be made to bring all soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the recent war into the post.

The goal of the Wisconsin American legion is to add 20,000 members, and bring its membership up to the 100 per cent mark before the end of the year. To stimulate the work, the state organization has offered prizes to posts and individuals securing the highest number of new members. These prizes consist of trips to the national convention at New Orleans.

URGE COUNCIL TO BUY PARK ON SOUTH SIDE

South side residents are eager that the city purchase West park while it is intact and are circulating petitions to this end which will be presented to the common council Wednesday evening or early next month. It is claimed the petition bear the signature of nearly every taxpayer in that part of the city.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By A. Carstensen
Appleton's Exclusive Furrier

There are laws protecting you against show weight, laws prohibiting the adulteration of this thing and that thing—but why aren't there laws to protect you from the wiles of the deceiving fur dealer?

In the state of Minnesota seal is seal—not nutria or rabbit masquerading under the cognomen of Hudson seal, electric seal or one of a dozen other imaginary brands of seal; sable is sable—not marmot, mink, fish or rabbit.

Under the laws of that state fines and imprisonment are the penalty for the sale of any fur under any other name than that of the animal from which the skins were taken. Even the use of the well-known trade names for various imitations are forbidden under this law. Eventually other states will enact fur laws just as drastic, but until they do the unscrupulous fur dealer will continue to thrive on his ill gotten gains.

Minnesota's law was not passed because some fur dealers in that state were any more dishonest than those in any other state. Neither are the majority of furriers in any state dishonest; but suppose there are a dozen trick furriers in a whole state—think of the thousands of dollars these dealers secure fraudulently each year.

Such a law should not seek to prevent the sale of imitation furs, but would demand that such imitations be sold under their right names and at the price they should bring.

It isn't the honest fur dealer who needs this law; the public needs it, though, and needs it badly. Sooner or later, however, people will learn to Beware of the Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

OUR FIRST YEAR

Capter 66 — Near a Parting

By a Bride

"But Jack, you know I can act!" Now that I had mentioned my bright idea about earning my own living, I bubbled over with assurance.

"Don't you remember the offer I had after 'Skoal'?" "You—want to go on the stage—my wife—on the stage—for a salary?" Jack stammered. His expression was blank—as vague as his voice. His face betrayed neither disapproval nor appreciation, just bewilderment.

"I could—that's all I'm saying," I continued. "They cut 'Skoal' to one act for vaudeville. And offered me $100 a week. Of course, I'd hate it. Jack, the separation. But since I'm responsible for our predicament—"

Jack interrupted me with a tragic sentence: "You're not responsible. It's I! I'm no good!" he groaned. "You must think me selfish to marry you—and not to take care of you, as you want to be, ought to be. You must think me a failure."

His speech was like blow upon blow. Jack didn't mean to hurt me. He was explaining himself, not accusing me. I was thankful that I knew how to construe him, otherwise we might have parted right there. I went to him, drew his head upon my breast, kissed him, but I couldn't stop his words:

"You've tested me! Peggins. You've shown me what a husband ought to do for a wife! And I haven't been able to keep it pace!"

"At any other time, you would have," I insisted. "It's the times—" the business slump—" "No, Peggins! It's I!" "Or I!" I murmured. "But Jack honestly, I've only been doing what all the girls do. Why, darling! We haven't half as much as most of our friends—"

A small accident ended our discussion. Jack's distressing reaction to my suggestion that I go on the stage had made me awfully nervous. While we argued, I twisted my pearl necklace. The string snapped suddenly and the drops of congealed moonlight dribbled through my fingers and rolled to the walls.

We went down on our knees to find them and met at a corner of the rug. Jack wiped my eyes, kissed me, comforted me. We sat like two little children on the floor.

We had not been such understanding friends for days. Finally Jack raised me to the davenport and we counted the beads.

"Take them to Barnick's," Jack suggested. "And have them strung properly this time. Two are missing, as I count them. That makes a half dozen you've lost, altogether." "The string is getting too short," I said. "But they're cheap things—you remember I paid only $25 for them? I'll have Barnick match them. If we can afford it!"

Jack pulled a few bills out of his pocket and less than one dollar in silver.

"There's our pile—until next payday," he laughed. "But I guess we can manage a few frosted beads without breaking us."

Household Hints

ROSE PETALS

Rose petals of taffeta are sprinkled all over the georgette frocks for summer. They have a very charming suggestion of summer and airiness. Needless to say, they are very inexpensive decorations for the home dressmaker to use.

ORGANDIE

Organdie, in delicate shades, scalloped and outlined with white batiste, is a new idea in lingerie. Voile in delicate shades is also very much favored.

BEACH PUMP

A smart beach pump is of black satin, cut on the popular sandal line. It has rubber soles and a low comfortable heel, and is equally at home on land or sea.

LACE LINGERIE

Lace corset are not as impractical as they sound. They are of a strong quality of mesh, and are worn so loosely and comfortably that there is little strain upon them. Lace brasieres are most desirable for hot weather and are shown in attractive styles.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is SUCCUMB. It's pronounced—su-kumb, with accent on the second syllable. The "b" was once but is now rarely sounded. It means—to lie or sink down as the result of pressure or force; to yield to submit.

It comes from—Latin "sub", under and "cumbere", which is akin to "cure", to be down. It's used like, this—"People occasionally succumb to heat during the summer months in most parts of the country."

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

If we followed the custom of the Laplanders, it is probable long engagements would become popular.

Whenever a suitor calls on his fiancée he brings along a bottle of brandy for the girl's father.

And even there, where prohibition is unknown the father sometimes purposely postpones the wedding for a year or two.

Just received 1 carload of Watermelons. Will sell at 30c each.—A. Gabriel, 965 College Ave.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Squeedilums

It seemed as though Nancy and Nick were never to get over the Seven Mountains.

They hadn't gone over half of them yet, and here they were with another difficulty before them. Some one had stolen the first record from its hiding place. Without it, it was of no use to continue their journey toward the Princess Therma's palace.

No, it wasn't Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, who had taken it. He was not allowed to follow them. Besides after finding that the terrible dreams he had sent to the Twins had come to nothing he was so disgusted that he flew back to his cave and changed himself from a bat into a dragon again. And there he sulked and sulked. I hope he enjoys himself doing it.

Nick and Nancy stood looking and looking at the hollow place in the ground where the record had been, trying to make up their minds what to do next, when Nancy happened to kick a stone with her toe. As it rolled away she saw a round hole.

"Just look there!" she pointed. "I'd believe it was the gnomes, Nick. Crookabone or Jigabumj, or Snip Scissors has come and stolen it just for meanness!"

Scarcely had she finished speaking when a tiny creature came out followed by a dozen others. The creature wasn't a bug or a beetle or a fly, for he wore the finest of clothes, being dressed in scarlet satin with a large neck ruff and a high pointed hat. The others following were quite as elegant.

"Good-night, friends," he called to those behind him. "We've stayed later than usual. The sun's quite up. But no wonder! With such a fine new dance floor! I'd certainly like to know what kind person left it here for us."

Suddenly he spied the Twins. "My, my, whom have we here?" he asked in a condescending voice.

"Nancy and Nick," said Nancy. "And who are you?"

"We are the Squeedilums," said the tiny person. "At your service."

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You always treat an older woman with respect.

In these days, when mothers seem as young as their daughters it is natural that much of the formality we once associated with older women has disappeared.

However, the thoughtful girl never forgets the courtesies due her elders, and she embraces every opportunity to be of service.

DINNER GOWNS

Navy blue lace now is one of the most popular materials for dinner gowns. Next in favor is brown. These are made simply, usually sleeveless, and with satin or taffeta in the same color used in combination.

Sunday School Teacher Makes Unique Record

Syracuse, N. Y.—Miss Agnes E. Campbell has specialized as a Sunday school teacher with the same degree of thoroughness that a teacher in the secular schools studies for educational work. She holds the state Sunday school teacher's certificate and a able theologians say there are very few students as familiar with Bible lore as she.

In 14 years there has been only one week during which Miss Campbell has not attended a Sunday school session, and on that occasion she failed simply because she found the church back door locked, on account of an epidemic. She holds both a gold bar and a star for different periods of attendance.

Miss Campbell, whose home is at Walton, N. Y., is a junior in the Syracuse college of business administration.

When film-coats make teeth dingy Pearly teeth which one delights to show When teeth do not glister When film removal makes teeth shine

and teeth they don't—the difference lies in a new way to combat film

A new method of cleaning has brought prettier teeth to millions. Also cleaner, safer teeth.

You see the results wherever you look. Teeth now glisten which before were dim. They show in smiles now where folks once concealed them.

This is to tell you the reason, then to urge that you make a free test.

They remove the film

These millions have gained whiter teeth by simply combating film in this new way.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it. The tooth brush, therefore, has left much of it intact.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Film is the basis of tartar. That is why teeth become cloudy and discolored. And some teeth—like smokers' teeth—become badly stained.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germes breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Those troubles have been constantly increasing for lack of a proper film combatant.

Now you can fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. Many careful tests have proved their efficiency. Authorities now advise them, and leading dentists half the world over are urging their adoption.

A scientific tooth paste has been perfected to comply with modern requirements. These two film combatants are embodied in it. So one may now attack that film twice a day at home.

The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Other new effects

The saliva contains two great tooth-protecting agents. One is a starch digestant. That is to digest starch deposits on teeth before they ferment and form acids. The other is alkali, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Certain food elements will multiply those tooth-protecting factors. But modern diet often fails to supply those elements regularly. Authority, therefore, desires the tooth paste to apply that stimulation twice a day.

Pepsodent does that. It multiplies both the starch digestant and the alkalis in the saliva. Every application gives these natural tooth-protecting agents many-fold effects.

Means a new dental era

Old-time tooth paste, based on soap and chalk, depress these factors in saliva. They reduce this tooth-protecting power on which so much depends. And they do not end the film.

So Pepsodent brings a new dental era to people who employ it. It brings five desired effects which old ways do not bring. So millions of people have come to adopt it, largely by dental advice.

One week will bring delightful changes

Pepsodent will quickly prove itself. The changes which you see and feel will very soon convince you.

Present the coupon this week for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch how every use leaves the mouth in fresh, alkaline condition.

One week will show you what this method means to you and yours. Go start the test today.

APPLETON WILL KEEP FRANCHISE IN VALLEY LEAGUE

OFFER 2 PLANS FOR OPERATING BRANDT TEAM

Businessmen Meet Thursday to Discuss Arrangements For Rest of Season

Appleton will retain its franchise in the Fox River Valley Baseball league. That was almost definitely determined at a conference of several Appleton men with August Brandt, owner of the local club, and John F. Kluwin, Oshkosh, president of the league, here Tuesday afternoon. An other meeting of Appleton men with Mr. Brandt has been called for Thursday evening in Mr. Brandt's office to discuss terms under which the team and club property will be transferred. Mr. Kluwin explained that the league has no desire to force Mr. Brandt out of organized baseball because of alleged violation of valley league rules and he said any plan whereby the club here is operated by any one except Mr. Brandt will be acceptable to him. Mr. Brandt agreed to cooperate in every respect with Appleton fans to keep the team in Appleton.

In opening the conference here, Mr. Kluwin expressed a desire that arrangements be made to retain the franchise in Appleton because attendance at the games indicates this is a good baseball city and because some ten or twelve baseball players are under contract to Mr. Brandt and if the franchise is transferred they will be thrown out of baseball jobs. No definite plan for operating the team the remainder of the season has been worked out. Mr. Kluwin has extended the time for arriving at a decision and concluding the negotiations until July 4. In the meantime Charles E. Emden will represent the fans and the club in the league and probably will be installed as a temporary director. Jack Rogers, former American association player, who worked in left field here last Sunday, will be manager of the club.

Two or three schemes were advanced for taking over the club for the remainder of the season. One was to purchase the property outright by forming a corporation to take over the club; another was to have Mr. Brandt appoint a representative, the league name one, and the two representatives to name a third and these three men to operate the property. These and other plans will be discussed Thursday evening. If an agreement can be reached on the value of the park and equipment, there is a big possibility that a corporation will be formed and stock offered to the fans of Appleton. It is believed that if the stock is offered at about $5 a share local fans will be willing to help keep the team here by subscribing and in that way become part owners of the club.

INDUSTRIAL NINES PREPARE FOR FAST PLAYING SATURDAY

Valley Iron Works Meets Tuttle Press—Fox River Paper Co. Plays Toy Co.

Players of the Industrial league are again making preparations for the stiff games which will be played in the league's fast race Saturday. The Valley Iron Workers team will meet the Tuttle Press nine at Brandt's park and will try to make up for the beating that it got last Saturday. Friebe again will be on the mound for the Iron Workers.

The Fox River Paper Company team will travel down river to Combined Locks for a run with the league leaders. Manager Bates of the Paper Makers is trying hard to line up a team to down the Locks men. Because many of the men are on shifts at the mill it is no small task to get a winning team together.

Hertel's Toy Company team will go to Kimberly and the Santa Claus boys will have to hit and run some if they want to come out on top. Hertel will make no changes in the lineup.

WILLIAMS GETS ANOTHER HOMER

Brown's Fielder Hits 18th Home Run of Season—Hauser Wallops One For Macks

St. Louis—The Browns romped over Philadelphia on Tuesday, 7 to 3, and compelling Connie Mack to use, without avail, four pitchers and three pinch hitters. Kenneth Williams slammed out his eighteenth homer of the season in the fifth, putting the ball over the right field stand and bringing in Sisler, who had tripped ahead of him. Eckert was in the box at the time.

Hauser, batting for Eckert duplicated Williams' performance in the sixth, sending the first ball pitched over the same route Williams' circuit clout went. Score: Philadelphia . . . 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 1—3 5 1
St. Louis . . . 1 1 0 0 2 3 0 0—7 11 1
Batteries: Harris, Eckert, Naylor, Tarrison and Perkins; V. Gilder and Severeid.

BURNS GETS 2 HOMERS

Detroit—Detroit ran its string of victories to eight on Tuesday by defeating Boston 9 to 2. Each club hit freely, but the Tigers' attack carried Dause through. Burns hit two home runs, both of which cleared the fence. Cuthaw also hit a homer. In every instance the bases were empty. Score: Boston . . . 0 0 2 0 1 0 2 3 0—5 12 1
Detroit . . . 1 1 3 1 0 0 3 0—9 12 3
Batteries: Ferguson, Russell, Karr and Ruel; Dause and Bassler.

SOX LOSE IN 13 INNING

Chicago—Urban Faber weakened in the thirteenth inning on Tuesday, and Sam Rice started a rally by stretching a single into a double, which enabled Washington to score three runs and defeat Chicago, 9 to 5. Rice hit safely in his last five times up and also played great ball in the field. The game was one of the hardest fought on the local diamond this season. The score: Washington . . . 0 0 0 4 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 3—8 18 4
Chicago . . . 2 0 0 0 0 1 0 3 0 0 0 0—6 15 2
Batteries: Erickson, Zachary and Charney; Leverette, Hodge, Faber and Schalk.

YANKS WHIP INDIANS
Cleveland—After losing eight games in a row, New York finally broke its disastrous streak on Tuesday, winning from Cleveland, 6 to 5. Uhl was driven from the box in the third inning, while Morton's poor support allowed New York to score three more runs. Bush was effective in the pinches, until the eighth when Jones replaced him and restored the side with the bases filled. The game was full of wrangling over decisions of Umpires Dineen and Nallin. Police escorted them from the field after the game. Score: Cleveland . . . 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 1—5 11 0
New York . . . 1 1 1 1 2 0 0 0 0—6 13 4
Batteries: Bush, Jones and Hoffman; Uhl, Morton, Bagby and O'Neill, L. Sewell.

TWO RING CHAMPS DEPRIVED OF TITLES

By Associated Press
New York—Two champions of the ring, Johnny Kilbane and Johnny Wilson, featherweight and middleweight title holders—stood deprived of their title rights Wednesday, so far as the jurisdiction of the New York state athletic commission is concerned, for failure to accept the defenses of challengers.
Kilbane's championship claims were declared forfeited by the commission for ignoring Johnny Dundee's challenge. In Wilson's case although action was withheld to give him the full benefit of the time limit, his title was considered automatically forfeited for failure to agree before midnight Tuesday night to terms for a match with Harry Greb, light heavyweight king.

FOND DU LAC AND KAUKAUNA PLAY EXHIBITION GAME

Valley League Clubs Meet Thursday Afternoon at Brandt Park

Kaukauna baseball team of the Fox river valley league will meet the Fond du Lac aggregation in an exhibition game at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Brandt park. August Brandt has donated the use of the park and the players on both teams have offered their services. The money received will be turned over to the Kaukauna club to be used in repairing the grand stand and diamonds which were ruined in the storm about a week ago. The Electric City will use its regular lineup and it is expected that Fondy will do the same. The game will give Brautigan's crew another chance at the offerings of Schneider, who defeated the Kaukauna sluggers on Decoration day. The result of the game, however, will have no effect on the standing of the teams in the league.

RUTH GETS THREE DAY LAY OFF FOR REVILING UMP'S

Suspension Follows Action of Babe in Monday's Cleveland-New York Game

Chicago—Babe Ruth Tuesday was suspended for three days by President Ban Johnson of the American League for the altercation in Monday's Cleveland-New York game which resulted in Umpire Dineen putting the home run slugger out of the game after he had disputed a decision on Numanaker of Cleveland at second base.

Ruth is suspended without pay for three days. Mr. Johnson said he also would fine Ruth and added that he believed the suspension would do the New York club good. "They've lost eight straight games, but with Ruth out of the game perhaps they'll turn around and win a few now," said the American League president.

TOY COMPANY OF AMERICA BEATS NEENAH ARCADES

The Toy Company of America Base ball team swamped the Neenah Arcades Sunday by a score of 18 to 3. The Toy Makers walloped the ball for three home runs. Niles pitched for the Arcades and Mally did the mound duties for the Toy Company team.

FIRST WARD TEAM LEADING LEGION'S TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Fifth Ward Wins From Fourth Ward—Second Ward Loses to Third Ward

Scrapping all the way, mostly over decisions of the ump's, the Fifth ward Twilight league team handed their guests the Fourth warders, a 10 to 7 defeat Tuesday evening. The Fourth ward team was weakened by the absence of Catcher Goehler but in spite of the handicap put up a game that made opponents play ball all the time. The game was featured by two home runs one by Linden of the Fourth ward and the other by Davis. Batteries for Fourth ward, Hantschel and Knite; Fifth ward, Schmidt and Snyder.

Lothar Graef's huskies from the First ward grabbed a close game from the strong Sixth ward team. When the dust was settled the score was 5 to 5 with First ward on top. Graef pitched for his outfit. The First ward now leads the legion league having won its two games. Batteries for First ward, Graef and Arens; Second ward, Scheurle and Elias.

The crippled Second ward team made a scrappy but vain effort to come out on top against the Third ward. The final count was 17 to 7 against the boys from down town. Batteries: Second ward, Hauert and Hauert; Third ward Terry and Reider.

JOHNSON CREDITED WITH 95 SHUT OUTS

Washington Hurler Comes Near Hundred Mark in His Career—Seven This Season

By Associated Press
Washington—Local baseball statisticians digging back into the records of Walter Johnson, who by blanking the Chicago White Sox Sunday registered his seventh victory this season against three defeats, have found that Sunday's blank drawn by the Chicago White Sox was the ninety-fifth Johnson has handed out in his big league career.

There is only one pitcher now in harness who is considered to have a ghost of a chance to top Johnson in shut out fame and that is Grover Alexander of the Chicago Cubs who has eight eight goose egg verdicts to his credit.
Third on the list is Babe Adams of Pittsburgh who has forty-three shut outs. Next in line are Jim Vaughn and George Tyler with 41 and 34 respectively. Johnson's closest rival in the American League is Dutch Leonard, Tiger holdout, now suspended for pitching for an outlaw club. He is credited with 23 shut out victories. Others who have over a score of shut outs chalked up not including this season's results, are Joe Bush 27, Shawkey 26, Mays 23, Coveleskie 22 and Ray Caldwell 22.

Rochampton—Molla Mallory defeated Mrs. R. C. Clayton in the international tennis tournament semifinals.

MURPHY PLANS NEW STUNT IN AUTO RACE

Chicago—Jimmy Murphy, California speed demon, plans an innovation in auto racing, he revealed here Tuesday. He intends to use eight carburetors, one for each cylinder of his specially built motor. He also let it be known that in the recent Indianapolis speedway race he drove the entire 500 miles without a generator.

Murphy said he had been using four carburetors and found the idea worked perfectly, so he decided to extend it to all his cylinders.

Tennis players representing Appleton Y. M. C. A. took three double and two single matches from Seymour players on the Y. M. C. A. courts Tuesday afternoon. The local players won ten out of eleven sets. Although this was the first appearance of the season for some of the men they showed good form. Following are the results of the matches:

(1) Singles
Huth, Seymour, vs. Bradford, Appleton, 1-6, 3-6; Berry, Seymour vs. Muehl, Appleton, 6-1, 6-4.

(2) Doubles
Huth and Berry, Seymour, vs. Muehl and Bradford, Appleton, 1-6, 3-6.

Y. M. MEN WIN FROM SEYMOUR AT TENNIS

Tennis players representing Appleton Y. M. C. A. took three double and two single matches from Seymour players on the Y. M. C. A. courts Tuesday afternoon. The local players won ten out of eleven sets. Although this was the first appearance of the season for some of the men they showed good form. Following are the results of the matches:

(1) Singles
Huth, Seymour, vs. Bradford, Appleton, 1-6, 3-6; Berry, Seymour vs. Muehl, Appleton, 6-1, 6-4.

FORESTER TEAM WILL PLAY OHKOSH NINE

The Appleton Foresters will go to Oshkosh next Sunday to play the National Independent baseball team of that city. Some changes in the Foresters' line up will likely be made and in all probability a much stronger team will meet the Nationals.

Peike and Peabody, Appleton, vs. Muehl and Fuerig, Seymour, 0-6, 5-1, 6-3.
Heideman and Boehm, Appleton, vs. Lotter and Paulson, Seymour, 6-1, 6-4.

COUCH'S HURLING BEATS BRAVES, 2-0

Boston—Couch of Cincinnati held Boston to two hits on Tuesday, Cincinnati winning, 2 to 0. Singles by Caveney, Pinelli and Daubert and Burns' sacrifice fly in the fifth gave Cincinnati its two runs. Not until the eighth did a Boston man reach first. In that inning Cruise and Ford singled. A barehanded catch by Burns in the ninth off Nixon was one of the features of Cincinnati's brilliant defense. Score: Cincinnati . . . 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—2 7 0
Boston . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 2 1

Not even USCO ever touched this value before

30 x 3 1/2 - $10.90

WHEN you look at a 30 x 3 1/2 USCO at $10.90 think back for a minute as far as you can remember USCO.

The truth is that men have always found USCO an outstanding money's worth no matter what its price.

Today at $10.90 USCO maintains its established standard of quality.

And because of the new price, it sets a new index of tire value.

Men who have used USCO have never been inclined to measure its value by the general run of tires.

Since last fall when USCO established the $10.90 price range they have recognized it as a value beyond any possible comparison.

A still greater money's worth than even USCO itself had reached before.

TWO ARE BITTEN;
DOGS LOCKED UP

Police Start Campaign Against Canines Running at Large Without Licenses

Two persons were bitten severely by dogs Tuesday, with the result that the canines have been ordered locked up for nine days by the police to determine whether the animals are possessed with rabies.

A son of Matthew Weber, 1086 College-ave, was bitten by a dog owned by the family of Mrs. Anna Kober, 15 Sherman-pl. T. H. Brunke, 801 North Division-st. was bitten by a dog owned by Harry Strutz, Winnebago-st.

These cases have led Capt. P. J. Vaughn, acting chief of police, to issue warning to all dog owners to obtain licenses if they have not done so already. The animals in these instances were licensed, but complaints have been made that dogs are running at large without tags. Prosecution will follow without further warnings from the department, Capt. Vaughn says.

LONG WALK IS TOO MUCH
FOR WOMAN 60 YEARS OLD

Attempting to walk all the way from her home at 505 Benoit-st. to Riverside cemetery Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. John Renner, 60, fell over on the sidewalk near Riverside greenhouse from heat prostration. She was attended by a physician and then conveyed to her home in the police ambulance. Mrs. Renner probably will recover but will be confined to her bed for several days.

WOMEN TAKE SECOND TRY
AT SWIMMING TONIGHT

Women and girls will have their second try at learning to swim Wednesday afternoon and evening in the Y. M. C. A. pool, under auspices of Appleton Women's club. Classes will be conducted at 2:30 and 7 and 8 o'clock. About 80 pupils appeared for the first lessons earlier in the week, and some already have been discharged because they learned to swim the first time they tried it.

DEATHS

SANBORN FUNERAL

The funeral of the Rev. David O. Sanborn was held at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the home of his son, Hermon Sanborn, 567 Morrison-st., Appleton, and at 3 o'clock from the Methodist church at De Pere Wednesday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. D. E. Williams, pastor of the Methodist church at De Pere, and the pallbearers were members of the Masonic order of that city. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery, De Pere.

RICHARD RUSCH

Richard Rusch, 11-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rusch, died Tuesday morning at his home in Elcho. He is survived by his parents, three sisters, Vera, Eva and Luila; one brother, Irving, Jr. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the home of Emery Rusch, 862 Richmond-st. Interment will be in Riverside cemetery. The Rev. J. L. Menzies will be in charge of the services.

ROGERS FUNERAL

The funeral of William Rogers was held at 8:30 Wednesday morning from St. Mary church and was largely attended. Mgr. W. J. Fitzmaurice and the Catholic Order of Foresters of which the deceased was a member, had charge of the services. The pallbearers were John Lowe, George Maurer, George Hatch, Samuel Hoh, Anthony Mauthe and William Tierney. Those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McDonough and daughter, Marion, Escanaba, Mich.; Mrs. Robert Egan and daughter, Jane, and Mrs. D. Ramsey, Loveland, Col.; Mrs. George Schoenfeld and daughter, Bessie, Chicago; Mrs. George Nyman, Neenah; Anthony Mauthe, Menasha; Mrs. J. W. Micks and Mrs. Eli Eaton, Gladstone, Mich.
